CLEVELAND'S VETOES.

THE REPUBLICANS GROWING IRRITATED.

An Evidence that They will Use the Vetoes in the Coming Campaign—The Fitzjohn Porter Bill Passes the Senate and Goes to the President—Matthews Rejected—Etc.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—[Special.]—President Cleveland's vetoes of thirty more pension bills was the sensation of the day at the capitol. In the senate the Fitz John Porter bill gave occasion to Senators Plumb, Blair and Teller to attack the president for his use of the veto power on pension bills, and in the house the republicans made an effort to get up a discussion on some of the rejected bills. It is evident that the republicans mean to attack the administration in the coming campaign on the line of alleged hostility to the soldier element. The democrats are confident that nothing can be made out of such a war on the administration. Every veto of a pension bill yet sent to congress has contained clear and convincing reasons which will stand against any amount of campaign fury. The disgraceful extravagances and glaring frauds of the pension business in the past have awakened a strong sentiment on this subject in the north, which will support the president in his courageous stand.

REJECTION OF MATTHEWS.

The almost unanimous report of the senate committee against the confirmation of the negro Matthews, of Albany, as successor to Fred Douglas here, in the office of commissioner of deeds, will result in his rejection. The nomination has caused great complaint in the district, and the president has been importuned time after time to withdraw it. The republicans of the senate committee voted against Matthews because of evidence submitted to show that he has been an offensive democratic partisan.

The democrats of the house are now in perfect accord as to the course of business for the remainder of the session, and the indications point to an adjournment in about three weeks.

F. H. R.

THE TWO HOUSES OF CONGRESS.

The Fitz John Porter Bill in the Senate--Vetoes from the President.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—On motion of Mr. Sewell, the senate took up the Fitz John Porter bill.

Mr. Logan addressed the senate on the bill.

Mr. Logan opened with an objection to the bill on a constitutional point. The bill, he said, provided for an increase in the number of persons on the retired list of the army, provided the president appointed a certain person to a place. If he did not make that special appointment the vacancy was not to exist. Where did the senate get the power to name to the president a person whom he should appoint to an office? Where did the house of representatives get any power to name to the president a person whom he should nominate to an office?

The fact that Fitz John Porter and others, whose names it was not now necessary to mention, conspired to make it impossible for a western officer to command until General Grant took hold of it, and at that time Porter and some of his kind were not then in it. It was a part of the programme of Porter and his friends that no western man should command that army. Mr. Logan asserted that Porter was the cause of the first Bull Run defeat, by persuading Patterson to retreat from Winchester with 30,000 men. In support of this he had the clerk read some extracts from his published work, "The Great Conspiracy." He denied that he was endeavoring to persecute Porter, when he was only defending Mr. Lincoln.

"As God is my judge," said he, "I would stand over the dust of Lincoln and swear by all the God's to his act as being an honest and just act. You gentlemen that were down in the confederacy," continued Mr. Logan, "don't know anything about this case except what you have read; and you come up here and vote without reference to the facts, (unless you have examined them) out of sympathy for this man. Every man restored to the army by congress after dismissal because of sympathy with the rebellion had found the republicans in congress to aid them. The prophecies of a few years ago were coming true. The legislation of the war was being reversed every day and by republican votes.

Within the last few days Mr. Logan said a man who, above all others, ought not have done so bad, dragged from the grave the honored bones of the greatest secretary of war that this country had produced, and they had been bestirred and besmirched by the vilest slanders. So the men who protected this government were to be vilified, while if anybody stood up to defend the upholders of the union, he is called a "persecutor." Union men were now men to be kicked, and enough republicans were found to vote with the democrats under the confederate flag against their own flag. Any man who wanted to fight under the confederate flag in this chamber had a right to do it. Mr. Logan meant this course only in a political sense—in the sense of political fight, but he did mean it in that sense.

While the republicans here were helping the democrats to pass bills like this, there were bills giving pitiful pensions of five to fifteen dollars a month to disabled soldiers of the republic that were being vetoed by the president. So, far fighting for the flag; for standing up in the time of war; for being ready to die that the union might live; the heavy hand of the chief executive of the republic fell upon these poor soldiers. Yet republican senators here were willing to vote to give $3,000 a year to a man who was a traitor to his commander. So, if men wanted to be paid liberally by the United States they had only to be treacherous when they should be true. "If you are true when you might be treacherous you are vetoed." "That," said Mr. Logan, "is a strange thing to take place in this country."

Mr. Plumb, in opposing the bill, said he would venture to say that not a man in the senate who served the confederacy in arms would hesitate to say that such soldier in the confederate army would have been dismissed in disgrace, if not shot, for failing to perform an obvious duty, which Porter failed to perform on the 29th and 30th of August, 1862. Mr. Plumb understood that the court-martial that had tried Porter, came within one vote of decreeing his death.

Mr. Sewell asked Mr. Plumb his authority for that statement.

Mr. Plumb asked whether Mr. Sewell denied the statement.

Mr. Sewell did deny it.

Mr. Plumb said that while there was no positive proof of his statement, as the court was sworn to secrecy, but it had gone into the common knowledge of men. This so called vindication of porter was a stab at Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Plumb conceded that there was a division among northern people about the matter but it was a division like that occurring in the Mississippi river the eddy going one way and the great full-headed stream the other way. It was not a new thing for the north to divide. Would the south divide on a question? Was there nothing significant in the fact that many a man who served in the confederacy would vote to put Fitz John Porter on the roll of union heroes? We had heard lately of an apotheosis of Jefferson Davis, at the same time that we got defamation of Edwin W. Stanton. Was there beneath all this a fellow-feeling for a northern man, who defeated the union army in battle? The reinstatement of Fitz John Porter was the beginning of an attempt to rewrite the history of the union army to put that which was disloyal and unfaithful above that which was loyal and faithful. This was our quarrel, if a quarrel it was; and the other side ought to refrain from voting on it.

Mr. Butler interposed to say that he had sat during this discussion without opening his mouth, either for or against the bill, but he submitted that there was a point beyond which forbearance ceased to be a virtue. That point was about reached so far as he was concerned. It had been intimated by innuendo, almost by direction, that southern men were casting their votes to restore Fitz-John Porter to the army because he was disloyal to the union. "I not only protest against that, Mr. President," continued Mr. Butler, "but, sir, for one, I denounce it as absolutely and entirely and unqualifiedly untrue; and, sirs, if it were in another forum I would denounce it as cowardly, because we are here in the exercise of our constitutional rights as senators on this floor, casting our votes as our conscience dictates. That we should be aspersed in this way is beyond my comprehension among men and gentlemen. I have not opened my mouth for Fitz John Porter. I know of no man from the south, or who was in the confederate army who has. We have taken the ground that it is not our quarrel, but sir, are we supposed to sit here like dumb brutes called upon to exercise our constitutional duty to vote and because we vote as our consciences dictate, without regard to his loyalty or disloyalty, following the track of republicans who brought this question here, we are to be aspersed and our integrity impugned. I repeat, sir, that if that aspersion were put upon me in another form I would denounce it as false and cowardly." He (Butler) had listened for the last time, without at least a protest, to these constant aspersions upon men from the south who were simply doing their duty as they understand it. In conclusion, Butler said:

I am the last man in the world, sir, I can inform the senator from Kansas, who would sustain a traitor to the union cause; I am the last man on this floor who would have respect for a man who I thought deserted his colors; but upon the evidence which we have had, and which I have looked at, I think, judicially, I do not believe Fitz John Porter was a traitor. I do not believe he deserted his colors, and believing that, I shall vote for this bill.

Mr. Plumb—I knew all that before the senator got up.

Mr. Butler—Then, I hope the senator will stop his insinuations.

Mr. Plumb—As the senator has not restrained himself from a somewhat lively speech here, I hope he will not feel under any restraint elsewhere.

Mr. Butler—I can say this to this to the senator: that if he were to indulge in just such sentiments and expressions elsewhere, as he has here, he would be very likely to hear from me.

Mr. Plumb—Oh, Mr. President, we hear a great many things in these days. There are signs and portents and all that sort of thing. It is just what the senator has said, that I was commenting upon, that while men who who served in the union army and the northern people were divided, to some extent, on this question affecting the honor, good name, faithfulness and loyalty of one of their own soldiers, no confederate soldier had any doubt upon the subject; but voted nem con, that he was not guilty.

After some further remarks, Mr. Plumb said he had just been informed that the president had vetoed the bill giving a pension of $50 a month to the widow of Major-General Hunter, who had been the presiding officer of the court martial that had tried Fitz John Porter. That seemed a fitting accompaniment for the passage of the Fitz John Porter bill. But the loyal people of the country would see to it that Mrs. Hunter should not suffer.

Mr. Teller offered an amendment to place upon the retired list General Alfred Pleasanton. Rejected—19 to 29.

Mr. Plumb offered an amendment to place Mrs. Hunter on the pension roll at $50 a month. Lost—19 to 29.

Mr. Logan offered an amendment to place on the retired list every volunteer officer who received wounds producing total disability. Rejected—18 to 29.

Mr. Blair offered an amendment providing that rejected pension claims may be taken to the United States courts with the privilege of jury trial. This amendment, he said, would relieve congress of many bills for private relief.

Mr. Beck said the Fitz John Porter bill should either be passed or voted down on its merits, and without reference to any other proposition.

After further debate, Mr. Blair withdrew his amendment.

Mr. Logan offered an amendment providing places on the retired list for union officers who lost an arm, a leg or an eye at the battle of Bull Run. Rejected.

The bill was then brought to a vote and passed; yeas 30, nays 17, as follows:

Yeas—Bock, Berry, Blackburn, Brown, Butler, Call, Cameron, Cockrell, Coke, Colquitt, George, Gibson, Gorman, Gray, Hoar, Jones of Arkansas, Jones of Nevada, McPherson, Maxey, Mitchell of Oregon, Pugh, Ransom, Riddleberger, Sewell, Vance, Vest, Voorhees, Walthall, Whitthorn and Wilson of Maryland—30.

Nays—Aldrich, Allison, Conger, Cullom, Evarts, Frye, Hale, Harrison, Hawley, Ingalls, Logan, Manderson, Palmer, Sawyer, Spooner, Teller and Wilson of Iowa—17.

Among the pairs announced were the following: Dolph with Hearst, Blair with Pike, Chace with Kenna, Edmunds with Harris, McMillan with Saben, Miller with Hampton, Dawes with Payne, Platt with Camden, Plumb with Morgan, Morrill with Saulesburry, Van Wyck with Fair, Mitchell, of Pennsylvania, with Jones, of Florida. The senator first named in each pair would, it is believed, have voted against the bill and senator last named in its favor.

The bill having already passed the house, and not having been amended by the senate, now goes to the president for his signature.

The senate then adjourned till Monday.

In the House.

Immediately after reading of journal the speaker laid before the house various veto messages yesterday transmitted by the president. They were read by the clerk and severally referred to the committee on pensions or on invalid pensions, until that vetoing bill granting a pension to the widow of Major General Hunter was reached, when Mr. Hepburn, of Iowa, moved that its consideration be postponed until Tuesday next.

The motion was lost—yeas 95, nays 141—and the message took the usual course.

Other messages were appropriately referred.

The senate amendments to the agricultural appropriation bill were non-concurred in.

Messrs. Hatch, Winans and Price were appointed conferees.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the sundry civil bill.

Mr. Bland, of Missouri, offered an amendment to the silver certificate amendment adopted yesterday, so as to place small certificates on the same footing as to redemption and re-issue as larger certificates already issued. Agreed to.

A short debate ensued upon the coast survey clause of the bill, and this was followed by a discussion of the internal revenue paragraphs.

Mr. Ermentrout, of Pennsylvania, offered an amendment providing that $3,000 of the appropriation for the recoinage of gold and silver coin shall be expended in recoining, dollar for dollar, into silver dollars, or subsidiary coins, the dollar, which may be presented at the

THE GIBBET AT SEALE.

EXECUTION OF GEORGE DAVIS FOR HIS CRIME.

The Slayer of Archibald Reaves on the Scaffold—The Story of a Cold Blooded Murder in Alabama, Near Columbus—Capture, Trial and Conviction of the Murder—Etc., Etc.

SEALE, Ala., June 25.—[Special.]—George Davis was hanged here today for the murder of Archibald Reams. The murdered man's real name was William McClellan, though he was familiarly known as Archie Reams. Both lived on the plantation of Mr. J. E Fitzgerald in this, Russell county. Davis was overseer of the place, and Reams worked under him. The story of the brutal murder, as told by Davis at the time, is as follows:

Wednesday, February 17th last, about noon, Davis sent Reams down to the river to look up some cows. Immediately after giving Reams the order Davis picked up his shotgun and started for the river by a different route. In a few minutes Davis overtook Reams near the bank of the river and shot him in the back of the neck. Davis says that after shooting Reams the first time he fell upon his knees and begged him not to kill him, and they talked for several minutes, when he told Reams that one of them must die, and shot him again. Seeing that Reams was still alive, Davis drew his knife and stabbed him in the throat twice. He then knocked him in the head with the butt of his gun, breaking his skull.

After committing this deed, Davis returned to where the negroes were at work and told them he had a secret to tell them which they must not reveal to anybody. He then related the story of the crime as given above. When asked by the negroes why he killed Reams, he replied, "That is my and Ream's business."

Davis then went on to the house of Mrs. McClellan, the mother of his victim, where he boarded, and ate dinner. He told her that Arch was sick and would not come to the house, and if she would fix his dinner, he would carry it to him. Mrs. McClellan prepared the dinner in a bucket and Davis carried it down to the field where the negroes were at work. About 1 o'clock Mr. Fitzgerald walked down from his residence to the field, and as soon as the negroes had an opportunity they told him what Davis had said. He approached Davis and asked him where was Reams. Davis replied that he had gone off. Mr. Fitzgerald told Davis it was no use to deny what had occurred, as he knew all about it. Davis then confessed that he had killed Reams and took Mr. Fitzgerald to where the body laid. The body lay there stiffening in a pool of blood, with two loads of shot in the back of the head and neck and shoulders, two knife wounds in the throat and the skull broken in by blows from the butt of a gun. The heavy blue shirt which Reams wore had been taken off and his coat put on again, and it looked as though Davis had used the shirt in trying to drag the body to the river.

After showing Mr. Fitzgerald the evidence of his awful crime, Davis asked him to help him put the body in the river and conceal the murder. Mr. Fitzgerald indignantly refused. He asked Davis why he killed Reams, and the brute made the same reply that he had given the negroes.

Davis then returned to the house of Mrs. McClellan, who was still in ignorance of the awful fate of her son, and told her that he had killed one of the negroes and would have to leave. He asked her to loan him Arch's valise. She not only consented, but helped him to pack his clothes, and he left.

Wednesday night, Judge Tucker, of Girard, was notified of the murder, and went down to the scene of the crime and held an inquest over the body. There was no testimony except the statement made by Davis to the negroes, and to Mr. Fitzgerald. To one of the negroes he said that he sent Reams down to the river for the purpose of killing him. The jury found that Reams came to his death at the hands of Davis, and that the crime was murder.

The pursuers arrested Davis on Thursday night in bed at the house of Mr. Mike Murray, only three miles from the scene of the tragedy, where he had gone and asked permission to spend the night. Bailiff Hammock and posse had been shadowing him, and when he retired they surrounded the house and captured him. When he saw that he was trapped he said:

"Well, it's a good thing you caught me napping."

Davis was taken to Girard and had a preliminary trial before Justice Tucker. Davis then made his statement under oath. He said that he and Reams's sister were quite intimate. They loved each other, but there had never been any improper relations between them, although Reams believes to the contrary. Reams had frequently spoken to him about the attentions he was paying his sister, and they had some sharp words about it. Last Saturday night Reams told him that the thing had to be stopped, or one of them would have to die. He told Reams that he loved Emma, and did not propose to give up his attentions to her just to satisfy him. On Wednesday about noon he sent Reams down on the river to look for some cows. After sending him the threats which Reams had made entered his mind, and he thought that would be a good time to kill him and stop all trouble and save his own life. He accordingly took his gun and followed him. He met Reams down on the river and talked to him a few minutes about the cows. They separated and went in different directions, but he turned and followed him again. When he got within about twenty yards of Reams, and just as the latter was about to look toward him, he shot. Reams fell, but jumped up and ran toward him with a knife in his hand. Reams asked, "What do you mean?" and he replied: "You know what I mean," and struck him across the head with the gun. He then pulled his knife and cut Reams's throat. Seeing that there was still life in him, he took a pistol which he had in his coat pocket and shot him again. He pulled off Reams's shirt and started to throw it in the river, but changed his mind and decided to throw nothing in until he could dispose of the body too. He said his idea for throwing the body in the river was to avoid all "trouble." He closed his statement by saying that he killed Reams in self-defense, believing that if he did not Reams would kill him.

Although the execution today was intended to be private, a large crowd was present. Davis made a talk, in which he admonished young men to take warning from his fate. He died in 5½ minutes, and was cut down in 13 minutes.

Sentence of a Priest.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 25.—Rev. John E. O. Sullivan was last night found guilty by the jury, of criminal assault on Abbie O'Connor, at the Catholic parsonage, in Camillies, in May, 1884. The trial has been in progress three days, and excited great interest in Catholic and other circles. The evidence was of a sensational character. This morning Judge Kennedy sentenced him to eleven years in the Auburn prison. A stay of proceedings for a week was granted, during which time he will be confined in Ordinage penitentiary in this city.

Kentucky Republicans.

LOUISVILLE, June 25.—The republican state executive committee held a long session last night, and decided to nominate candidates in every congressional district in the state. A call was also made for John W. Yorks, of Danville, to oppose James Barber, democratic nominee for judge of the superior court.

THE LAKE SHORE STRIKE.

The Men Obstruct the Track and Cause a Wreck.

CHICAGO, June 25.—At Root street crossing of the Lake Shore railroad, this morning, the police on duty numbered thirty, which included every available officer on the town of Lake force. There was no change in the situation up to 9 o'clock, and no intimation of any attempt to move trains had been received up to that hour. There was, however, a prevailing impression, in spite of the peaceful declaration of the strikers, that trouble would occur today. A car-load of switchmen reached Chicago about midnight from Toledo, and it was thought they would be put to work. About 9 o'clock the imported switchmen were taken out to Forty-third street in charge of Superintendent Amsden. They remained in the car, and had not, up to 9:30 o'clock, been expostulated with by the strikers. The imported men number about 25, and include many of those brought to Chicago during the last strike. Shortly before 10 o'clock the officials, with the assistance of the police, succeeded in attaching an engine and caboose to a waiting freight train. Beyond the expostulations of the crowd, no trouble was experienced until after the caboose was attached to the train. The latter consisted of ten cars for South Bend. The crowd grew in proportion and more threatening. The police and railroad employes were cursed and threatened with violence. In the meantime the small force was divided between the trains and in guarding the switches to prevent the latter being turned so as to make impossible the first movement of the train. Finally, responding to the cries of several leaders, the crowd rushed for the police and turned the switches in spite of the latter. The police had their clubs drawn and used them in a few instances, but the officers were either so thoroughly astonished or overawed by the crowd, they made no successful resistance. A portion of the crowd, at the same moment, surged toward the train, which had commenced to move out, but which, passing upon open switches, was thrown from the track, the engine and all the cars being derailed. To complete the wreck, the coupling pins were withdrawn and thrown away. During the melee the police succeeded in making two arrests. Excitement in the vicinity is still very great.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE PARTIES AT ISSUE.

At a meeting of the striking Lake Shore switchmen last night, the following communication was received:

To D. O. Reiley, Chairman: The officers of this company are in receipt of your message of this date, reading as follows:

"We have unanimously declared ourselves on a strike, on the old issue of April 17th, and have established ourselves at No. 4321 Wentworth avenue, where the committee may be seen at any time between 7 a. m. and 10 p. m."

By the old issue it is understood you mean the demand made upon the company in April last that it should discharge from its service certain employes who it was claimed, were objectionable individuals If this is correct there is no other answer to be made than that contained in the letter addressed you by L. D. Jones, general yard master, April 17, last. This stated that under no circumstances would the company discharge old, faithful and efficient employes on such a request. The officers of the company desire the committee, and those whom they represent, to be advised that their declaration that they are on a strike is accepted by the company, as notice of their withdrawal from the service, and any members who desire re-employment must make application before noon Firday.

P. P. WRIGHT,
General Superintendent.

A call has been issued and quietly circulated for a meeting of all the general managers and general superintendents of railroads entering Chicago. The object is to discuss the merits of the strike and the course to be pursued by connecting roads regarding it. It is recognized that if the switchmen's union is disposed to back up the Lake Shore men, complications must arise with other roads, as in that event members employed on other lines will refuse to switch over to the Lake Shore cars from the west consigned to that company. The managers say that they will insist that this work be done the same as if no trouble existed on the Lake Shore, and if the switchmen's union orders out the men on this point, the issue will be fought out if railroad traffic comes to a standstill.

The railroad officials are not endeavoring to remove the wreck, and until that has been accomplished, further efforts to move any cars will be impossible. One of the men arrested is a member of the executive committee of the switchmen's union. At 11 o'clock, the crowd about the switching beard was very large, and constantly growing, despite frequent rain showers. The temper of the crowd still very ugly. A passenger train approached the scene soon after the attack on the freight train, and one of the rioters, picking up a coupling pin, flung it at a brakeman standing on the platform. It caused no damage, however. No other demonstration was made against the passenger train, operatives or passengers.

A large crowd, surrounding the roundhouse will not allow any engine to come out. Eight new switchmen have been severely beaten and gone home.

Some of the imported switchmen were attacked by the strikers shortly after noon and several injured. It is stated that a number have refused to work, owing to a fear of violence. The crowd at Forty-third street, at 2 o'clock, numbered about 2,000. A conference of the general managers was held today. All the roads entering Chicago were represented. The conference was very brief. The managers assured President Newell that they would require their men to do their full duty and to handle the Lake Shore cars as well as those of other roads. At 4 o'clock this afternoon fifty of Pinkerton's police appeared at 43rd street, accompanied by thirty switchmen; strikers still remained in the vicinity, and when an attempt was made to take an engine from the round house, the crowd made an effort to run a box car on the track. The police charged them, however, knocking two down with their clubs. These men were placed under arrest with a third man who was active in the efforts to cause the blockade. The crowd then retired a short distance and the train abandoned in the forenoon was successfully made up under a heavy guard, and run north to Thirty-eighth street, where it passed upon the main track. Guarded by fully one hundred police, it again proceeded south and passed out of the city.

A COURT ROOM FIGHT.

A Knight of Labor and a Prosecuting Attorney Have a Tussle.

ST. LOUIS, June 25.—During the trial this morning of Judge-Advocate McGary, of the Knights of Labor, and several other Missouri Pacific employes who participated in the late strike, charged with conspiracy, an altercation arose between the former and Prosecuting Attorney McDonald. The judge-advocate, who was defending his own cases, was interrupted by Mr. McDonald, and hot words followed, which were followed in turn by blows. McGary was struck under the chin and hurled backward and would have fallen had he not been supported by spectators. He recovered from the shock and rushed upon the prosecuting attorney, striking at him viciously. The men clinched, but were finally separated. M. Gary was fined $25.

David Davis Dying.

BLOOMINGTON, Ills., June 25.—Judge David Davis has declined steadily today, and may die before morning. His physicians say he can't live more than two days at most.

The Anarchist Trials.

CHICAGO, June 25.—As the result of to-days work in the criminal's court, the fourth juror was accepted by both sides and sworn in for the anarchist trial.

GLADSTONE'S WELCOME.

MANCHESTER GREETS THE GRAND OLD MAN.

An Outpouring of the People to Hear Mr. Gladstone Speak—John Bright Taken to Task—The Assembling of Parliament—The Queen's Interesting Speech—Other News.

MANCHESTER, June 25.—Mr. Gladstone addressed the electors of Manchester this afternoon, in Free Trade hall. He spoke for one hour and twenty minutes. For a while during his speech his voice was somewhat hoarse and difficult to manage. This was because on the way from Hawarden to Manchester the premier met with a continuous ovation, to which he responded by speeches in open air at some of the places where the train stopped. Mr. Gladstone was received at Manchester with indescribable enthusiasm, thousands being assembled at the railway station to welcome him, and the street being literally packed with people. All the way from the depot to Free Trade hall, As the carriage bearing the premier made its way through this long, dense throng, the loud cheers sent up were made continuous and the scene was memorable in the extreme. Strong men made themselves hoarse in shouting "welcome." Some that shouted were unable to attract any attention whatsoever. When the carriage reached the hall the building was surrounded on all sides by an enormous assembly which started a lusty fresh cheer at the sight of the premier. It was soon evident that about the only persons outside Free Trade hall who could possibly get in at this hour was the orator of the day. The apparent miracle of making way for him seemed to incommode no one, and he passed in without a wedge. The building was jammed. The people were so closely packed that at every surge it looked as though they must burst the walls. It is known that seven thousand were seated.

When Mr. Gladstone appeared on the stage, the scene beggared description. The whole house rose in one outburst of enthusiasm. The cheering lasted exactly three minutes. The audience then quit without having quite vented their feelings so they sang "Aulld Lang Syne."

At its conclusion Mr. Gladstone arose and stepped forward That provoked a renewal of enthusiasm, which then burst up anew in a fresh round of cheers that rose and fell with thrilling effect for a couple of minutes more. When the audience got their throats all sore with this loud and violent form of welcoming the grand old man, they vented a good deal of enthusiasm they had left by singing in chorus: "Oh, he's a jolly good fellow!"

Then Mr. Gladstone moved his hand and silence came. The premier at last began his speech. He began by saying that he lamented that the Irish question had been so much associated with doubt in the present controversy. He admitted the difficulty of all fully embracing quickly the many aspects of such a large question. But, on the other hand, there had been much unnecessary and pretended difficulty imported into the controversy as well as much honest difficulty attending it. The government had suffered some heavy losses. Of all these losses none gave him a cuter pain than loss of John Bright. Although Bright's conscience had led him to place himself in opposition to the sentiment, of the nation on this question, he had shown no eagerness to be first in the ranks of dissentisis. [Cheers.] Of course the government's opponents would not now let Bright alone. He was too valuable a man. Hence the people had seen Bright giving Mr. Caine a testimonial of character, and Caine had already deplorably misrepresented this testimonial, just as he had the liberal party, which elected him but recently to house of commons. This testimonial made it appear that Mr. Gladstone had once condemned the principle of home rule. Mr. Bright knew that Gladstone had never condemned the principles of home rule. However, the audience would hear no criticism of John Bright from Mr. Gladstone.

Richard Chamberlain, member of parliament, attempted to address the electors of West Islington last night, but was not allowed to speak. He was met with cries of "traitor," and the platform was stormed. Mr. Chamberlain and his friends escaped through a back door.

The Irish protestant home rule league have issued an election manifesto in which it denies that Irish protestants are opposed to Mr. Gladstone or that they believe the adoption of his policy for the establishment of an Irish parliament will endanger the lives of protestants in Ireland.

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH.

LONDON, June 25.—Parliament was prorogued today. The following is the queen's speech:

My lords and gentlemen: I have determined to release you from your duties before the full accomplishment of regular work of the session, in order to ascertain the sense of my people on the important proposal to establish a legislative body in Ireland for the management of the Irish as distinguished from imperial affairs. With this object it is my intention to immediately dissolve parliament. I continue to happily maintain the most friendly relation with foreign powers. I have the satisfaction to acquaint you with the fact that the warlike operations of Servia against Bulgaria have been brought to a close through the wise counsels of the powers and the forbearance of the sultan, and also after a period of anxiety of the adoption of the pacific counsels of Greece. The disarming of Greek forces, now in progress, has removed serious danger to the peace of the east of Europe. The state of affairs in Egypt has improved. I have been enabled to materially reduce my force in that country and to bring it within the southern limits of Egypt proper. I have concluded an arrangement with Spain which, if adopted by the cortes, will, I trust, increase our commercial intercourse with Spain, and also encourage the importation of colonial wines. I have felt a lively pleasure in promoting the exhibition of products, manufactures and art of my colonial and Indian domains, which is now being held in the metropolis. I feel that this enterprise and the cordial interest the people exhibit therein at once prove the sympathy uniting several portions of the empire, and powerfully tend to confirm and promote that sympathy.

Gentlemen of the house of commons, I thank you for the liberal supplies you have provided to meet the exigencies of the public service until the new parliament shall have opportunity to complete the amount necessary for the full service of the year.

My lords and gentlemen, I have with great satisfaction given my assent to the bill amending laws affecting the crofters, the bill affecting important reforms in the medical profession, and the bill amending the law regarding the custody and guardianship of children. I have given my consent to the bill making such changes in the law of international copyright as are necessary to enable Great Britain to enter the international copyright union contemplated by the convention about to be signed at Berne. In this bill opportunity is taken for conferring upon the colonial and Indian authors the benefits of copyright which shall be valid and uniform in every part of my dominions.

Finally, it is my earnest prayer that the parliament about to be elected may be so guided as to promote the peace, happiness and contentment of my people and the strength and union of the empire.

Busines Failures for the Week.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Business failures occurring throughout the country during the last week, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., for the United States, 138; Canada, 24; total, 162, against 155 last week.

The Count's Manifesto.

PARIS, June 25.—Much excitement has been caused by the manifesto of the Count of Paris, on his departure from France. Newspapers containing the manifesto are selling on the streets in large numbers. The document has made a great impression.

THE DRUMMERS.

Second Day's Session of the Travelers' Protective Association.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 25.—[Special.]—The second day's session of the Travelers' Protective association commenced at 10 o'clock this morning at Ford's opera house. A large number of ladies and business men of Baltimore occupied seats in the dress circle and galleries. Rev. Wayland Ball opened the proceedings with prayer. Notwithstanding the social visits paid by the delegates to the headquarters of the Pennsylvania and New York delegations, at the Carrollton house, and the jollification indulged in up to the small hours of this morning, the boys came into the convention looking none the worse for wear. The first business was the reports of state presidents. They all gave evidence of a healthy growth. Georgia is the youngest state organization in the association and the report of its president was received with cheers. The Indiana state president reported a rapid growth, and said he expected before long to see a travelers' protective association revival, such as Sam Jones might produce if he pitched in the hoosier state.

The report of the national railroad committee occupied much time in its reading. The most important features of this are the names of railroads in the north and west that have granted concessions to the association. The Baltimore and Ohio have just conceded two hundred and fifty pounds of baggage, and the Pennsylvania railroad has conceded three hundred pounds. The chairman of the committee said he was in communication with southern roads, and expected soon to be able to report concessions. The committees hope ultimately to have granted a five thousand mile book at reduced rates, good over any road in the system issuing. The Richmond and Danville system, it is expected, will soon grant this concession to the association. Much dissatisfaction exists touching the mode of conduct in the "Merchant Traveller," the official organ of the association published at Chicago, the outcome of which was a report from the press committee recommending the establishment of a paper of its own by the association, with the national secretary as managing editor. The committee on amendments to the constitution, after an eight hour session reported the result of their labors to the convention. The consideration of the report was deferred until tomorrow.

By unanimous consent the order of business was suspended and the election of officers was proceeded with.

Vice-President Poske took the chair and Messrs. Lewis Hutzeler, of Georgia, C E. Rockenood, of New York, and William Dutcher, of Massachusetts, were appointed tellers.

Mr. Henry, of New York, said: "I believe it is well to let well enough alone. The Travelers Protective association has been wonderfully successful under the administration of Oliver P. Pindell. I therefore nominate him for the presidency of the national association."

The nomination was seconded by Michigan, Pennsylvania, Georgia and other states, and amidst tho waiving of hats and hurrahs, Mr. Pindell was elected by acclamation.

Mr. John R. Stone, the present efficient secretary and treasurer, was nominated and elected by acclamaiton.

The convention adjourned to meet at eight o'clock tomorrow morning.

The banquet at Concordia opera house tonight was a recheche affair. About fifteen hundred ladies and gentlemen were present. Among the toasts, that of "Our Merchants" was responded to by Mr. F. B. Thurber, of New York, in a happy vein. He said, among other things, that the drummer of today and of the future was the true missionary, and without him the trade of the country would not be what it is. The banquet and exercises lasted until one o'clock.

Ed. B. Watson, of Atlanta, arrived today, and took his seat in the convention as a delegate.

A HUSBAND SHOT.

Because He Had Cast Dishonor Upon His Wife.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—John Slinkard shot his father-in-law, Frank Rhodes, on College street at seven o'clock this morning. Probably fatally. The shooting was the finale of a knock down fight, which occurred about fifteen minutes previously. While Slinkard was coming up towards town, Rhodes walked up behind him and knocked him down without warning, kicked him in the face, on the head and in the side. He then turned and walked away, and remarked:

"You took her on trial, did you?"

Slinkard got up and walked behind Rhodes until he got to McCastin's shop, where he armed himself with a pistol, overtook Rhodes and began firing. The origin of the trouble was as follows: Six weeks ago Slinkard married Rhodes' daughter. They rented rooms and lived together peaceably for a while, but soon disagreed, and since the first misunderstanding have had various quarrels. On Wednesday the couple agreed to seperate, Slinkard taking another boarding house. He says he never ill-treated his wife, and there separation was mutual, but Rhodes contends that he was very cruel to her, and would frequently stay away from home all night. To a friend who asked about the separation, Slinkard said that he had only taken her on trial. Slinkard heard that Rhodes was after him, and carried his pistol to Henry McCaslin's tin shop, where he was employed, expecting Rhodes to come there after him. After the shooting, Slinkard surrendered himself and had the charge of assault with intent to commit murder registered opposite his name.

YOUNG LOVE IN A CREEK.

Up to Their Armpits in Water Holding an Umbrella Over Their Heads.

RICHMOND, Va., June 25.—Henry Warrington, aged 19 years, the only son of a poor but aristocratic family living near Red Sulphur Springs, and Alice Demarest, the beautiful 16-year-old daughter of Bouveau Demarest, an immensely rich land owner, whose residence and park are situated ten miles east of the springs, ran off to get married at 6 o'clock this morning.

The flying pair eloped in a buggy. They made good time until Indian creek was reached. The creek was very high, but an attempt was made to ford it. When midway of the stream the vehicle was washed over and the occupants thrown in the water. They lodged against a broken tree in the middle of the creek. The young man caught the young girl as the rushing waters were carrying her down and held her. Fortunately, just at the root of the tree there was sufficient foothold for Warrington to stand, so that the water only came up to the armpits, but on either side of him it was too deep and the current too strong for him to venture to reach the store. He held Alice in his arms for two hours before they were discovered. The position was made more unpleasant by the sun pouring its rays upon them. Fortunately, when the buggy was overturned, an umbrella was thrown in reach of the young man, and he managed to open and hold it over the lady.

Novel as was the catastrophe, the rescue was even more novel. A young man, although the risk was great, swam a strong horse to the place, and the imperiled youth and maiden hung on to the animal's tail, and were brought back safely. The girl's father caught up with the pair at the creek and the wedding did not take place.

A Gradual Strike.

OPELIKA, Ala., June 25.—[Special.]—The construction gang on the East Alabama railway have gradually been working up a strike for about a week past. They struck one at a time. There are now but few laborers at work on the road. Superintendent Barnes, however, seems to apprehend no trouble in getting his work done. He says he can get all the working force he wants and whenever he wants it.

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes has received from the University of Edinburg the degree of LL.D.

Queen Victoria has telegraphed an expression of condolence to the count of Paris on his expulsion from France.

Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland is to make Chicago her home. She will take charge of the editorial department of "Literary Life."

Collections of internal revenue during the first eleven month of the fiscal year ending June 30, amount to $107,104,485, an increase of $3,492,738 over the corresponding period last year.

A CUT-THROAT.

GEORGE WASHINGTON ASSAULTS HIS WIFE.

The Officers After Him—Mercer University—Closing Exercises of Public Schools—A Cartoon—A Mirror Stolen—General News Notes and Prominent Personal Paragraphs.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Last night George Washington became furiously jealous of his wife, who is a cook for Professor Glenn, and followed her over to the residence of Major Cobb, and raised a row with her. Hot words led to blows, and the man made a pass at her throat with a long knife, and missing it, he cut an ugly gash across her forehead, extending across the face above the right eye. The wound was an ugly one, and bled profusely, but is not considered a dangerous one. George skipped out after the deed was done, and has not been seen since.

The Champion Debate.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The champion debate between the Phi Delta and Ciceronian societies, of Mercer university, took place tonight at Masonic hall. The societies were assembled at 8 o'clock p. m, and marched to the hall, preceded by the president of the debate and debators. When the societies had reached the hall the exercises were opened with prayer by Dr. W. C. Smith. The subject for discussion:

Resolved, That the government should foster home manufactories by a protective tariff.

Was then read by Mr. J. R. Cain, secretary of the debate. The Phi Delta society upheld the side of the affirmative and Ciceronians supported the negative. The first speaker on the side of the affirmative, Mr. Callaway, of West Point, Ga., made a fine speech and won many plaudits from the audience. He was followed by C. G. Dilworth, of Monticello, Fla., who spoke well in favor of the negative. The next speaker was L. M. Nunnally, of Eufaula, Ala. He is a pleasant speaker and made some strong points. Following him came R. L. Regals, of Macon, the second speaker of the negative side His speech was full of strong arguments and received considerable applause. The last speech on the affirmative side was made by Peter Zellars, of Lincolnton, Ga. This gentleman made a forcible speech and introduced many strong arguments which his opponents found hard to answer. The last speaker on the negative was J. W. Smith, of Long Branch, Ga. He fully sustained his reputation as an able debater and surpassed all his previous efforts as a speaker.

When the last speaker had taken his seat the interest of the audience was very great, and when the president of the debate, Hon. John C. Rutherford, of Macon, arose to announce his decision, he was greeted with great applause. After some very witty and appropriate remarks he announced his decision in favor of the negative. After the decision the large and appreciative audience dispersed. A prominent gentleman present said it was the finest debate Mercer has had for years.

A Cartoon

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—A man with a sketching turn of mind exhibited a picture today which he calls the "Gubernatorial Outlook." The state of Georgia is down inside a ring, above which is the executive mansion. Below, coming at a 2:40 gait, is a gaily chaperoned war horse, heading direct for the mansion. Beyond, heading in a diffeaent direction, is a large hog, going at full speed, away from the mansion, with a big dog labelled "Telegrph" and a smaller one marked "Chronicle," in full cry after the shote. Under them appears the legend, "Head us please, we are on the wrong route."

It is a pretty fair cartoon and portrays the state of affairs in a strong light.

United States Court.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—In the United States court today the case of Travers, Sneed & Co. vs. Barnett & Ingraham was called, and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiffs, with interest and costs.

The case of Annie Ryan vs. Lucy Cohen, charged with embezzling a money order, is now pending.

Commissioner Erwin tried the case against Potter and Frazier, of East Macon, charged with abstracting a railroad ticket, and has withheld his decision.

Stole a Mirror.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—A man named Sylvester Wilson was arrested by Constable W. W. Henderson this evening. Sylvester was a sort of help about the academy of music, and some time ago he stole a mirror from the building, and pawned it at Lohenstein's pawnbroker establishment on Cotton avenue. He went and redeemed it, but he was not satisfied, and, returning, stole it a second time and pawned it. He was having a real fat thing of the mirror racket, and now he has plenty of leisure to reflect on his past conduct, through the grated windows of the county jail.

The First Baptist Church.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Dr. E. W. Warren, pastor of the First Baptist church, says that the congregation expect to get into the renewed building by the first of September. The lease on the European house quarters expires at that time, and they will not want to occupy it longer than that time. The price paid for the present place is about $55 per month. Only the basement will be occupied for the first few months, until the building is entirely finished. The windows are now being painted in the tower.

Mercer University.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—A meeting of the trustees of Mercer university will occur at ten o'clock tomorrow. Business of importance will come before the body on Monday. A successor to the late Professor Steed will be appointed, and there are quite a number of applications to be considered. Professor T. E. Ryals has resigned his position in the preparatory department, and will go to the University of Virginia to take a course of study at that institution. This will leave a vacancy to be filled by some good man.

Dots and Dashes.

MACON, June 25—[Special.]—The new wholesale house of L. Cohen & Co. are busy improving the interior of their building, on Cherry street. They seem to be doing well.

W. H. Felton, a rising young lawyer of this city, announces himself for the legislature. He has a strong following, and is the fifth candidate announced up to date.

Macon policemen are doing well with their savings. Several of them are building houses in South Macon.

Quite a lively party leave for Clinton tomorrow to hear General Gordon's speech there. The boys went over to help whoop 'em up.

J. A. Nelson is repainting his handsome residence in East Macon.

A good joke was perpetrated on Mr. Felix Camp by Captain Frank Hervey, the auctioneer, yesterday. Trade being a little dull, he knocked off a small laced and frilled baby cap to the unsuspecting shopper.

Recorder's court only produced three cases of a trivial nature today.

Officers Ray and Johnson are waking up the Tybee ruffians today. They made a general clean up of the boys.

News of the death of Mrs. Rassee, near Eatonton, has shocked her many friends in Macon.

No. 4's picnic at Adams's park yesterday, was a grand success.

Personal Paragraphs.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Mr. W. L. Baldwin, of Lakeland, Fla., was in the city yesterday.

Colonel A. L. Miller, of Perry, one of the capitol commission, passed through the city en route for Atlanta today.

Lee McCrary, THE CONSTITUTION man of Oglethorpe, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Bethune, of Talbotton, who furnishes THE CONSTITUTION specials from thereabouts, was in the city last evening.

Mr. H. C. Bagley, of Americus, passed through the city yesterday.

Mrs. E. N. Deberry, of Augusta, passed through the city today on her way to Cuthbert, where she will spend the summer.

Mrs. Appleton Collins returned from a visit to Bolingbroke today.

President W. G. Raoul, of Savannah, passed through the city today.

COLUMBUS CHRONICLES.

Closing Exercises of the Schools--The Gun Club.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of St. Joseph academy, in charge of the Sisters of Mercy, took place today. The highest honor of the academy, a crown, was conferred upon Misses Maude King, Annie O'Brien and Alice Leo. A long list of medals and premiums were awarded.

The closing exercises of the Orphan Asylum school took place today, and were very creditable.

The colored public schools closed today. Diplomas were awarded to a large class of graduates.

In the contest today of the Columbus Gun club, Mr. Frank Colzey won the first honor, breaking ten balls in succession. Mr. M. H. Tuggle won the second honor, breaking eight out of ten.

WIND AND HAIL.

Great Destruction Reported From Henry County.

McDONOUGH, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Yesterday at two o'clock p. m. McDonough was visited by a rain, wind and hail storm, such as its inhabitants have never seen before.

Trees were uprooted and fences blown down. On the south of the town it was the most violent, blowing the colored Methodist church from its pillars and completely wrecking and scattering the colored Baptist church. Several negro houses were demolished, but no one damaged personally. At the East Tennessee depot the storm was fearful, blowing entirely away an unfinished storehouse, laying flat Schaefer's guano depot, and scattering lumber from the yards over the adjacent hills.

For hours afterwards the wires could not be used here, owing to the instruments being flooded in the office.

The storm lasted only about five minutes, but the rain was so hard that every house and everything was drenched inside and out.

Damage to crops in some places was terrible, corn being blown down and some broken off; cotton torn to pieces by the hail and scattered far and near.

The greatest damage to any one was to Messrs. Alexander & Copeland. Their millhouse was unroofed, the tin was torn and scattered some 200 yards; their engine room a total wreck and the three stories of their mill flooded.

IT WAS CYCLONISH.

HAMPTON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—A heavy hail storm passed through Mt. Carmel settlement, three miles north of Hampton, lasting thirty minutes, and doing great damage to cotton and corn. The former is perfectly under in places. Fences and houses were blown down, but fortunately no lives were lost as far as heard from, although the wind was terrific and cyclonish in its effects. Heavy washing rains prevailed generally.

FAILS TO REALIZE HIS CRIME.

The Story of a Murder on the Seacoast—

DARIEN, Ga., June 25—[Special.]—Joe Cooper, the murderer of John Mason, seems to regard prison life with a great deal of equanimity. Your correspondent asked him if he realized that a terrible punishment probably awaited him, but he seems, in a way full of simplicity, to scout the idea of ever being brought to the gallows. It is suspected that some love affair is the real cause of the crime, but this Cooper stoutly denies. He admits threatening Mason to "knock his head off' when, on the day previous to the murder, he called him a s— of a b—. This threat evidently irritated Mason, as he persisted in hurling filthy epithets at Cooper, who says he did all in his power to avoid a conflict. The next day, he says, Mason again sought him apparently for no other purpose than to renew the quarrel, and after bearing it a long time he finally picked up a piece of wood and struck Mason on the head, from the effects of which he died a short time after.

Cooper says he had no idea that he had killed Mason and did not therefore run away to escape legal punishment. The other laborers on the turpentine farm, he affirms, were partial to Mason, and to escape violent treatment at their hands he fled. Cooper is about 24 years old, looking more like a genuine simpleton than a brutal murderer.

Caught at Nahunta.

WAYCROSS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Chas. Mickler, colored, who shot John McCormick in the left hand and breast about two months and a half ago, near Jacksonville, was captured by Sheriff Holland, of Duval county, Florida, at Baker & Brothers camp, near Nahunta, on the Brunswick and Western railroad today.

A Fatal Disease.

HAMPTON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—There is a disease, mostly among the children, following the whooping cough, resembling dysentery, and very fatal. Mr. E. T. Wynn lost two youngest children last week from this disease, others are quite ill. Many attribute it to impure water, alleging that all wells, since the winter's heavy rains, contain a superabundance of stagnated water.

Boys Running Away.

JACKSON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Tommie Shelton, son of Mr. T. A. Shelton, and Bob Logne, son of Mr. W. W. Logne, of this place, boys about fifteen years old, ran away from their parents last night. They said they were going to Florida. Their parents are very much distressed about their boys.

The Case Argued.

CUMMING, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The case of Thomas E. Walker vs. Robert F. Douglass, was argued before W. H. Malone, auditor, yesterday, and day before. Hon. Henry L. Patterson represented the plaintiff, and Geo. L. Bell, and Judge Lester the defendant.

In the Hands of the Police.

MACON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Charlie Mosely was set upon by several men in Sandy Bottom last night, and a general fight ensued. The police are looking into the matter.

SCHOOLS OF THE STATE.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES THE ORDER OF THE DAY.

The R. E. Lee University, of Thomasville—The Closing Exercises of Hearn Institute—Miss Callaway's Class—The West Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical College.

THOMASTON, Ga, June 25.—[Special.]—The annual commencement exercises of the R. E. Lee institute occurred this week. The chapel was tastefully decorated with evergreens and beautiful paintings, and by eleven o'clock Sunday morning every seat was occupied. A large crowd had gathered to hear Dr. Henry Quigg, who preached the commencement sermon from the first part of the first verse of the eighth chapter of Daniel. He related the story of Daniel and his three companions, and made a practical application of the lesson, showing the importance of early training and having a fixed purpose in life. His words to the graduates were wise and beautiful, and his entire sermon was one of the finest and best ever delivered here.

Monday morning the prize declamation and recitations took place and in the evening occurred the celebration of the primary and intermediate departments, which consisted of music and songs, recitations, dialogues and charades.

Tuesday morning was the junior exhibition, consisting of speeches and compositions interspersed with music and songs.

Tuesday evening the literary societies gave an entertainment. This was the most brilliant and enjoyable occasion of the commencement. Miss Katie Forrest, president of the Polymnian society, made the opening address. Her beauty and grace, her perfect ease and charming manner brought down the house in applause. All the pieces were excellent and deserve more notice than can be given here. The charade called My Jeremiah was very laughable, and was cheered to the echo.

The closing address was delivered by Mr. W. C. Norris, president of the Thalian society. He is a fine speaker and one of the most intelligent young men of the school.

After these exercises, and before the good night song was sung, Mr. J. E. F. Matthews, in behalf of the young ladies of the Polymnian society, presented Prof. G. A. Harrison, the president of the school, with an elegant silver headed silk umbrella, as a token of their respect and esteem. This pleasant surprise of pupils to teacher was a graceful close to the entertainment.

Wednesday was the regular commencement day, the day of honors and distinctions of medals and flowers, of smiles and sighs, of happy meetings and partings painful. There were six graduates, all young ladies, to-wit:

Miss Katie E. Forrest, Miss Lilly M. White, Miss Jessie I. King, Miss Lizzie Mitchell, Miss Pearl Trice, Miss Loula L. Pound.

Professor Harrison's address in conferring the degrees was very touching, and brought tears not only from the young ladies who were about to bid him farewell, but also to the large audience of the friends and patrons of the school.

The medals were delivered by Mr. G. F. Oliphant in his peculiarly happy style to Miss Lizzie Mitchell, for excellence; to Miss Julia Thompson, for first honor in prize recitations and honorable mention of Miss Estelle Norris, to Mr. Thomas X. Carraway, first in second division of prize declamation and honorable mention of Mr. J. M. Walls, and to Master Eugene Smith, first in first division of prize declamation, and honorable mention of Master John Lewis.

The commencement address was delivered by Rev. Charles Love. It was a masterpiece, and worthy of the man and the occasion. No commencement or institution ever had a better one.

Professor Harrison and his excellent assistants, Misses Amanda Davidson and Mollie Bennett in the academic department, and Mrs. H. L. Porter in the music department, may well feel proud of this commencement, for the entire programme reflected great credit not only on the pupils who took part, but also the teachers.

The Thomaston cornett band furnished excellent music for the occasion.

Wednesday evening the Thomaston amateurs and orchestra rendered "Agravating Sam," a comedy in two acts, at the college chapel, for the benefit of the institute and the Methodist Workers. This closed the entertainments for the week.

The Savannah Public Schools.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The graduating exercises of the city high schools took place in the theater today, and were very largely attended. The valedictory of the boys was delivered by Edward W. Smith, and the response by Walter C. Hartridge. The valedictory to the schoolmates of the girls' high school was delivered by Miss Agnes Johnson, and the response by Miss Gertrude Middleton. The valedictory to the fellow graduates by Miss Celia Stern; the salutatory by Miss Ada Proctor, and the valedictory to the school authorities by Miss Susie Elkins. The address was delivered by Rev. Timothy Harley. The Peabody medals were presented to Edward W. Smith and Miss Josie White.

Captain George A. Mercer, president of the board of education delivered diplomas to the following graduates:

Girls—Alice Stuart Baker, Annie Louise Bessellieu, Carrie Louise Bessellieu, Gertrude Willie Brown, Lillie Einstein, Susie Foster Elkins, Vida Randolph Fleming, Frances Thomassana Henderson, Cornelia Thruston Hall, Agnes E. Johnson, Carrie Amanda Landershane, Mary Burney Porter, Ada Louise Proctor, Annie Louise Shellman, Celia Stern, Sadie Josie Strade, Julia Huguenin Thomas, Alice May White, Emma Arthur Williams.

Boys—Joseph Louis Andessy, John Berner Barneville, Guilleman Bourquin, Henry Martyn Drane, James Ralston Lattimore, Edward Frances O'Connor, Robert Lee Ryan, Edward Worthington Smith, Frances Lee Threadcraft, Dorninzo Anthony Usina.

The Exercises in Hearn Institute.

CAVE SPRING, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of Hearn institute (sub-department of Mercer university) and of Mercer Female seminary took place last night in the chapel of the seminary. This entertainment consisted of declamations, recitations and essays by the advanced pupils of both schools, and was as near faultless as such entertainments ever get to be.

The entertainment given on Tuesday night by the primaries and intermediates was especially fine.

Dr. A. J. Battle contributed much to the success of the occasion by delivering a fine commencement sermon on Sunday morning. He was induced to preach again at night, and all who heard his sermon upon this occasion were more than repaid and delighted. Mercer University, of which he is president is fortunate in having at its head a gentleman of such high order of bearing and ability.

The board of trustees have re-elected Mr. M. H. Lane, principal of Hearn institute, and Mrs. Undine B. Lane, principal Female seminary.

Mr. E. H. George, who has been associated with Mr. Lane the past session will sever his connection with the school and will enter the ministry, the church here having licensed him at its last business meeting. During his stay he has made many friends, and we regret to give him up. He is a young man of unusually fine ability.

Miss Mattie Callaway's Class.

WEST POINT, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Last night Lanier's opera house was filled to its utmost capacity with a highly appreciative audience to witness the musical exercises of Miss Mattie Callaway's class. Every member of which reflected most favorable credit upon their teacher. A Brilliante was executed with exactitude by Misses Callaway and Susie Driver.

"Only a Heart," quartette, sung with effect by Messrs. Lanier, Tom and N. Barker, and Miss M. Callaway. They were recalled.

"Who'll Buy My Pretty Flowers?" This little song was charmingly rendered by Miss Sallie Little.

Misses Effie Williams, Nellie Gibbons, Mary Little, Julia Callaway, Tom Barker, Pat. Gibbons, Robert Croft brought down the house in their rendition of a "Bunch of Buttercups."

Instrumental pieces were skillfully executed by Misses Mary Willie Cox, Laula Edwards, Gracie and Blanch Dubbins, Pauline Blackman, Jessie Humphry, James McClendon, Jr., Lena Edwards, Miss O. Callaway, etc.

Miss Sallie Little was voted a veritable dansuese by the gracefully tripped "Fisher's Horn-Pipe." Taken altogether the occasion was a marked success. The proceeds were generously donated by Miss Callaway, to the Presbyterian church.

The Closing Exercises.

HAMITON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of the West Georgia Agricultural and Mechanical college, under the management of Professor J. W. Dozier, will take place next week. The following is the general programme:

Sunday, June 27, Rev. Bascom Anthony, of Buena Vista, will preach the commencement sermon.

Wednesday, June 30, the public examination will begin. They will be made interesting by the interspersing music by members of Mrs. B. C. Kimbrough's class. At night, speeches, dialogues, and like exercises will take place.

Thursday, July 1, Rev. R. H. Bullock, of Chipley, will deliver the annual literary address before the school. Professor Dozier will read the average standing of each pupil for the whole term, and the examinations will close. The entertainment at night will consist in similar performances to those of Wednesday night. The college Record will be read by its editors, and the valedictories will be delivered by Mr. J. M. Kimbrough, Jr.

Professor Dozier has made this institution a success under his management, and all who attend these termination exercises will be amused, entertained and instructed.

The College Hall Exercises.

HAMPTON, Ga., June 25—[Special.]—College Hall exercises occupied the entire week, Rev. Dr. W. F. Cook, of Griffin, preached the commencement sermon from Mal: 4—6, on the subject of "Parental Responsibility."

A literary address of great merit was delivered Tuesday by Mr. F. L. Adams, a rising young minister of the town. The exercises were largely attended and elicited unusual interest, Prof. Denton has won new laurels, and is the right man in the right place.

The annual address by Judge John D. Stewart, Wednesday, upon a good name did credit to the distinguished gentleman, and awakened great enthusiasm by his happy effort. The audience was spellbound from beginning to the close of his address, and tears of joy were visible in many eyes. It did the heart and soul of all who heard it good, for his words had such a willing flow, that all was brightness where they fell.

School Days in Jonesboro.

JONESBORO, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The monotony will be relieved somewhat here next week by the commencement exercises of Middle Georgia college, under Professor Otis Ashmore and his assistants, among whom is Mrs. C. D. Crumley, the best female educator in the country. The commencement sermon will be preached next Sunday at College chapel by Rev. T. P. Cleveland, of Atlanta; annual address by Rev. G. A. Lofton, of Dalton.

The Harmony Grove School.

HARMONY GROVE, Ga., June 25.—[Special.] The examination of Harmony Grove high school occurred today. The students acquitted themselves well and showed thorough training in every department. Prof. Quillian and his assistant, Miss Carrie Harden, deserve much praise for the attention and training that was manifested by their pupils this morning, thus showing themselves among the best educators of Georgia. Our community may justly be proud of such talent.

Appointed to Speakers' Places.

ATHENS, Ga., June 24.—[Special.]—The following young men were today appointed to speakers' places in the senior class of the university: M. B. Bond, Leabanon, Tenn.; J. D. Carswell, Waynesboro, Ga.; W. L. DeLay, Savannah, Ga: J. W. Fain, Atlanta; J. J. Gilbert, Columbus, Ga.; C. H. Herty, Milledgeville; C. E. Morris, Athens, Ga.; J. M. Slaton, Atlanta; E. P. Upshaw, W. S. Upshaw, Social Circle; P. L. Wade, Athens, Ga.; C. H. Wilcox, Athens.

A Roman Spelling Bee.

ROME, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—An old fashioned "Spelling Bee," was held at the city hall tonight, under the auspices of the ladies of the Methodist church. The spellers included the leading lawyers, merchants, physicians, business men and politicians. A large audience was present, and enjoyed the fun very much. The music was very fine. A handsome sum was realized.

NICKNAMES IN DARIEN.

How the Nomenclature of a County is Added to.

DARIEN, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Nicknames are quite fashionable in Darien. There is hardly a young man here who is not in every day conversation referred to by his nickname. We have our Smiths, Browns, Joneses, Robinsons and Greens.

"These names," said Mr. L. Hawes, better known as Doc., one of our prominent liquor dealers, "will stick to you young roosters now as long as you live. When a happy-go-lucky young firebrand up in Stoughton, Massachusetts, forty years ago, I one day determined to get off something good on a sport-loving chum, and with this object in view I asked him if he had heard of the foot race which was going to take place that evening. In breathless anxiety he answered no, and asked impatiently who were going to run."

"'Old man Seth Keith and Doctor Parkman,' I answered. Both of these men were octogenarian invalids, and my chum went away gnashing his teeth at being so badly sold.

For a week or two after this episode he always contemptuously referred to me as 'the doctor,' and for forty long years the name has clung to me."

The Granite Interests of Lithonia.

LITHONIA, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—We have a multiplicity of stone work going on around our town—S. H. Venable & Co.. Collins & Co., Mike Maher and G. W. Johnson, and we have room for as many more without monopolizing the business. Some two or three hundred hands are at work, forty or fifty of that number are Scotchmen, breaking block to pave the streets of different cities.

Quantities of stone are now being shipped to Savannah, Macon, Athens, Atlanta, Gainesville. Cincinnati, Ohio. Columbus, Ohio, Louisville, Ky., Opelika, Ala., and various other places too tedious to mention.

It is nothing but reasonable that such a community should be solid for Gordon.

Celebrating St. John's Day.

DALLAS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The masons of Dallas lodge celebrated St. John's day on yesterday. Visiting lodges present, Villa Rica, Draketown, Powder Springs and Acworth. Speakers from Atlanta were to be present, but owing to the rain did not reach here. Their places were supplied by impromptu speeches by E. W. Y. Allgood, worshipful master of Draketown lodge, D. Pike Hill and J. M. Spinks. Music by the young ladies of Dallas, Miss Emma Cooper at the organ, after which a splendid basket dinner was spread in the grove, and everybody invited to help themselves.

The day was spent pleasantly and quietly.

His Arm Broken.

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Rev. M. J. Cofer, residing here as pastor of Broad River circuit, was kicked by his horse this morning and had his left arm broken in two places. Dr. Hill has just attended to the wound, and we trust that it will not result too serious.

The Stock Law Election.

LUMPKIN, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—At an election on the stock law held here for Lumpkin militia district, the fence men carried the day by 59 votes out of a poll of 183. A majority of the whites favored the stock law.

I believe it is claimed by Gordon men and conceded by the Bacon men that Gordon will carry the county. Primary on the 1st of July.

Deaths in Georgia.

Mrs. S. H. Griffin, at her home near Hampton, died on 20th from "constriction of lungs." She leaves a large family of children and a broken hearted husband to mourn her loss.

Dr. P. M. Watts, residing some six miles from Forsyth, died very suddenly on Thursday of heart disease. He has been an invalid for a long time. A highly respected, honest and good citizen is gone.

Executive Call for Insurance Returns.

STATE OF GEORGIA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
ATLANTA, Ga., June 25, 1886.

ORDERED: THAT ALL INSURANCE COMPANIES in this state, or doing business therein, shall, through their chief officer or agent residing in this state, report to the governor a full and exact statement of their condition on June 30, 1886.

The reports, called for by this order, must comply in every particular with the requirements of the law as set forth in section 2842 (a) of the revised Code of Georgia, (1882), and must be filed in this office on July 1, 1886, or within 60 days thereafter. Said reports must be published as required by section 2843 (b) of said code, and a copy of the published statement sent to this office.

A failure to comply with this law subjects the company to a penalty, which is a forfeiture of its right to do business in this state and causes a revocation of such company's license.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

various mints six months after the passage of the act.

Pending action the committee rose, and the house, at five o'clock, took a recess until eight o'clock, the evening session to be for the consideration of pension bills.

THE EVENING SESSION.

While the house was considering pension bills this evening, Mr. Gibson, of West Virginia, criticised several of the reports submitted by the committee on invalid pensions, and stated he would raise a point of no quorum upon certain measures. Thereupon, Mr. Bayne, of Pennsylvania, rose and attacked the president for his recent veto messages on pension bills. He was astounded at the vetoes. In the whole history of the republic they were without a parallel. The austere and rigorous Andrew Jackson, desirous of asserting his power and making his individuality conspicious, had never monopolized power as the present president had done with reference to those pension bills. This man had even had the temerity to sneer at the reports of a committee of this house. He had the temerity to put the seal of his sarcasm on the reports of the committee granting a pension to the widow of some man who had been slain in the service of his country. This man, himself no soldier, himself walking in the path of peace, when all those other men imperiled their lives to save the union, came in and put his veto on the unanimous vote of the house and senate of the United States, what constitutional asperity had the president for going to this length? Who had invested this man with such power that he must assert himself and say to the people of the country, "I am larger than you, and I know more about what should become law than the three hundred and twenty-five members of the house of representatives and the seventy-six members of the senate?" It was the fault of men endowed with brief authority to arrogate to themselves knowledge that they did not possess. He was no better than any American citizen, and he, by God, was not the equal of any man who perilled his life and went out to save the union. [Applause on the republican side.]

Mr. Matson, of Indiana, defended the president, who, he declared, was fair and just and prompted by his conscience. Two men might honestly differ upon a question and that was all there was in all this talk. All the gentleman has said in the way of abuse of the president was uncalled for. The president was an honest man and the people of the country knew it, [applause], though he (Matson) did not agree with the president on this question. The president was a courageous man, and he honored him for it. He was president of the United States, and was called upon, in the exercise of his high office, to take the grave responsibility of approving or vetoing bills, and when he did it honestly, though he (Matson) might differ from his views, he would not abuse him, and the gentleman from Pennsylvania could make no more out of abusing him than he made out of abusing his own president, Arthur.

Mr. Peters, of Kansas—We cannot honor the president for an ignorance of his prerogative.

Mr. Matson—He knows his prerogatives, and knowing them he has the courage to exercise them. [Applause.]

Mr. Warner, of Ohio, defended the president's course, declaring that dis aim was only to keep off the pension roll men who were not entitled to go there. The attempt of the gentleman from Pennsylvania and others to make capital out of the vetoes would fail, because the country believed that, though in some cases the president was mistaken, he was honestly endeavoring to keep off the roll men who were dishonestly endeavoring to get there.

Mr. Blanchard, of Louisiana, thought that there was no need to answer the assault made upon the president. The president could stand the assault made upon him by the gentleman from Pennsylvania, or any other gentleman. The country was prepared to applaud the action of the executive when he pointed out mistakes which had been made by congress.

The discussion continued at some length, the president's action and the conduct of the pension bureau under Commissioner Black, coming in for criticism and defense, and then, without transacting any business, the house at 10:45 adjourned.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

The River and Harbor Bill—The President Goes Fishing.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The senate committee on commerce agreed this morning to report the river and harbor bill next Monday. A sub-committee was appointed to examine the measure with a view to the correction of any verbal errors, but the amounts named in the bill as heretofore published are to stand unchanged. Hennepin canal has been placed on the bill by the senate and $300,000 is appropriated to begin the work.

The president today "took a day off," and went fishing down the river on a private yacht along with two or three members of congress. Yesterday was probably the busiest day the president has had since his inauguration. It was devoted almost entirely to the consideration of pension cases. During the day he acted upon 118 private pension bills. After giving each case a thorough personal examination, 30 were vetoed and 88 approved. The president wrote all the veto messages himself without assistance, by dictation or otherwise. They made about fifty pages of closely written foolscap. Indeed, it is stated that the president has personally written every message that has issued from the white house durng his administration. Plenty of work will be ready for him on his return from his yatchting cruise, as 203 bills have just been received from congress for his action. Of these all but 62 are private pension bills.

The senate committee on the District of Columbia has voted to report adversely upon the nomination of C. F. Mathews, (colored), of Albany, N. Y., to be recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia.

The senate committee on privileges and elections held a short meeting this morning and voted to report adversely to any investigation of charges of bribery in connection with the election of Senator Payne. The majority of the committee think there is not sufficient evidence to show that money was used in the election, and are very confident that the result was not in any way affected by improper means. There will be a minority report in favor of investigation. It is said that only Senators Hoar and Frye will sign the minority report and that Senators Teller, Evarts, Logan, Saulsbury, Vance, Pugh and Eustis will sign the majority report.

Joining the Church.

REYNOLDS, Ga., June 26.—[Special.]—Quite an interesting series of meetings is in progress at the Methodist church here. Several have been added to the church, and the religious interest of the entire town is increasing. Rev. J. B. Culpepper arrived today, and Rev. Mr. Morehouse, from Geneva, on yesterday.

J. L. Norton Carroll, residing at Far Rockaway, Queens county, N. Y., was so crippled with inflammatory rheumatism, of ten years' standing, that he had to use crutches. He was completely cured by taking two Brandreth's Pills every night for thirty nights, and will answer any written or personal inquiries.

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

Lease of the Chesapeake and Ohio.

RICHMOND, Va., June 25.—The Newport News and Mississippi Valley railway has leased the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. This consolidation makes a grand trunk line, under one management, from Newport News to New Orleans, where it will connect with the Huntington system to the Pacific ocean. The consolidation will not affect the present management of the Chesapeake and Ohio, as the officers of that company occupy the same positions in the Newport News and Mississippi Valley railroad. President C. P. Huntington is reported as having stated that in less than two years there will be ten thousand miles of railroad tributary to Newport News. In a few days the name of the Chesapeake and Ohio will be dropped and the road will be known as the Newport News and Mississippi Valley railway.

The Extension of the A., P. & L.

LUMPKIN, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—The extension of the Americus, Preston and Lumpkin railroad from Lumpkin to the Chattahoochee river is being rapidly pushed. The iron is arriving daily and the work is being rapidly taken up by the contractors, Messrs. Ferguson & Co. A convict camp has been established and a force of 100 convicts will be put on by Monday next The directors of the road have voted to extend also from Americus to the Ocmulgee river. When Atlanta gets there we will be there also. There is not much written about this little road. It is not necessary. We have all learned from sad experience to depend upon ourselves, and are doing it.

HEADLIGHT FLASHES.

Mr. John H. Griffin, traveling passenger agent of the Chicago and East Illinois railroad, is visiting Savannah.

Mr. Fred D. Bush, district passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, has returned to Atlanta from a trip through the Carolinas.

Mr. Joseph W. White, traveling passenger agent of the Georgia railroad, spent Thursday in Atlanta. He left yesterday morning for Columbus.

The trains arriving in Atlanta during the last few days have brought in a large number of college students returning to their homes for the summer vacation.

Exposure and Conviction.
ON ACCOUNT OF CHA[illegible]
THE PIEDMONT

The information contained in STANDARD GA[illegible]t made by the hygienic authorities of the Nation on food adulteration is not only valuable, but suggestive. The people of this country are getting to a point where they will not much longer brook the trifling with adulterators. In this connection we wish to say that we believe that the public will not forget the Price Baking Powder Company, for their effort, heroic and single-handed as it was, to bring the bread-tainters of the world to exposure and conviction. The issue of their war was purity in human diet, and the decision of the National Food Analysts was that DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER was the only one they could recommend to general family use, being free from ammonia, lime and all drug taint.

Indications for Atlanta and Georgia, taken at 1 o'clock a. m: Generally fair weather; nearly stationary temperature.

Georgia, Florida, Alabama, North Carolina and South Carolina: Generally fair weather; stationary temperature; variable winds, generally southerly.

PARLIAMENT was prorogued yesterday and will be dissolved today.

MISS ROSE CLEVELAND is to make Chicago her home, where she will assume conduct of the "Literary Life."

YESTERDAY was a great day with the public schools of Atlanta and the children, with their happy faces, met in full force to bid each other farewell until after vacation.

THE strikers on the Lake Shore road are becoming more violent than they were last May. Yesterday they caused the wreck of a train, and were charged on by the police.

THE Fitz John Porter bill was passed by the Senate yesterday. As it had previously passed the house, it now goes to the president for his signature. During the course of the debate yesterday, Senator Plumb, of Kansas, took occasion to insult the southern members, which was promptly resented by Senator Butler, of South Carolina.

A SPECIAL from Pierre, Dakota, to the New York World, announces that Fred. W. Stone, the celebrated foot racer, had eloped with a beautiful and wealthy young lady, Miss Carrie McGibbons. At last accounts the enraged father of the young lady was on the track of the flying lovers. Stone went from New York to Pierre to join a crack hose company and help in a prize contest. It seems he has taken a prize in himself. He is a handsome fellow, and is quite accomplished. He is about thirty-eight years old and has been a professional foot racer for twenty years. He has won many prizes in that line, but will probably value this last more than all the others.

The Railroads in Politics.

The opinion of THE CONSTITUTION is that the railroad corporations of Georgia have made a tremendous mistake in forcing the commission issue into politics. This opinion may not be worth much, but it is worth as much as the opinion expressed by THE CONSTITUTION when the Central railroad, under the management of Mr. Wadley, was making an effort to blot Americus, and other communities, from the railroad map. THE CONSTITUTION predicted then that the railroads of the state, by their discriminations against communities and individuals, were creating a public sentiment that would finally result in defensive legislation.

This prediction was fulfilled to the letter. The railroad law, as it stands today, and the commission established by it, are as truly the outcome of the policy pursued by the corporations as any water-tank on their lines. The railroads may protest against the law, and fight the commission, but both the law and the commission may be traced to the discriminations which the corporations thought necessary to impose on the public.

THE CONSTITUTION told the railroad managers that they were making a mistake in imposing these discriminations. We now tell them that they have made a more fatal mistake in bringing the commission issue into politics. They have clearly shown their hand in the present campaign, and the people have been quick to see it. They have been quick to see it, and they will not be slow to rebuke it. Wherever there has been a snap judgment in the present campaign—wherever the small politicians and the courthouse cliques have had their way, there the railroad influence is known to be paramount. The people take note of these things and remember them, and whatever difficulties the railroads may hereafter have with the commission and its decisions, may be traced directly to the fact that they have carried the whole matter into politics, instead of allowing it to remain where it was. Hereafter the great problem will be, not how to modify the railroad law, but how to take it out of the domain of politics; and this is a problem that will keep the railroad managers very busy.

In Clarke county, when the famous forty-one met to select Bacon delegates, the chairman was the president of a railroad, and the directors of a railroad figure among the delegates. The people had nothing whatever to do with this matter, but they are not blind to the facts of the case. In Augusta, the fine Italian band of the railroads made its appearance. The corporations have brought a pressure to bear elsewhere, until now the people have come to recognize the fact that Mr. Bacon is the candidate of the railroads. He is the attorney of one of the most active lines, and there is not a well organized railroad in the state that is not making an effort in his behalf. These are facts that cannot be canceled. They stick out. They are protuberant. The issue seems to be between General Gordon and the people on one side, and Mr. Bacon and the railroads on the other. This is now well understood.

There is no sort of doubt as to the result. The people will win; but we are surprised that men as sensible as the railroad managers in Georgia should have permitted themselves to be drawn into any such contest. THE CONSTITUTION has always believed that the people, upon a proper representation of the facts, would be willing to modify the railroad law so as to make things even between themselves and the railroads; but when the question is carried into the whirl and confusion of politics, there is only one answer that the people can give. They will not only refuse to modify the law as it stands, but they will refuse to place in the executive chair a man who, by reason of his relations, might be induced to appoint commissioners who will sympathize with the corporations, rather than with the people.

There will be no need to modify the law if the governor of the state shall appoint railroad men on the commission. The corporations would then have things in a sawing, so to speak, and they wouldn't turn on their heels to secure a modification of the law, for the law would be a dead letter.

We repeat, the railroads have made a tremendous mistake in forcing the commission issue into politics.

Today's Elections.

Today's primaries and meetings added to those already held will give us more than one-half the delegates that will compose the state convention. There have already been 130 delegates chosen, of which Gordon has 70, Bacon 54 and Jones 6. Add to these the 52 delegates to be elected today and we will have on record tonight 182 delegates of the 350 that will make up the convention.

It is absurd for the Bacon organ to say that the result as declared tomorrow is not indicative of the final result. General Gordon entered the race after 18 delegates had been actually chosen. His opponent had been in the field for six years, and had a following that had been trained and compacted through three campaigns. His opponent had control of the party machinery in eight-tenths of the counties. In spite of this General Gordon has broken down the lead of 18 votes, closed the gap and gone to the front himself. Each week has seen his lead increased and the gap between himself and his opponent steadily opened. If, as his friends hope he will, he increases this lead still further today and his column tomorrow shows that he is further away from Bacon than ever, no intelligent observer can doubt what the final result will be.

The Macon Telegraph has worn out its absurd hobby about the Gordon counties being grouped together and rushed forward for the sake of effect. This is precisely what Bacon did with Clarke, Camden, McIntosh, Quitman and others. He rushed his own home county forward for fear of opposition there. He rushed Richmond county forward, giving only six days' notice. He has rushed every possible county forward in order to break the terrible force of Gordon's lead. General Gordon has fought him steadily on territory of his own choosing, and today's result, whatever it may be, will be simply the result of twenty average counties, ranging from Glynn on the coast to Dade in the mountains, from Lincoln on the Savannah to Miller on the Chattahoochee. Every section of the state will speak today, and no one but a blind man will attempt to say that today's programme was fixed up by one candidate or the other.

Have Boys no Rights?

A shocking case of heartless oppression is reported from Carlisle, Pa. It appears that at the recent oratorical contest of the junior class of Dickinson college, a young lady decided to compete for one of the prizes. Under the rules she had the right to do so, but the male juniors got mad, and made their arrangements to hiss her down.

When the time arrived, Miss Longsdorf, the young lady in question, stepped on the platform. The students hissed and hooted, but the obnoxious orator displayed a brutal degree of self-possession. In defiance of the manly opposition of the juniors, she spoke right on. The young men made a gallant attempt to rebuke the interloper. They redoubled their yells, and exploded firecrackers and torpedoes. One brave fellow rang a bell on a neighboring building for ten minutes.

It is hard to believe, but this selfish and cold-blooded young woman had no consideration whatever for the feelings of the juniors. Regardless of the protests of her victims, she continued her relentless persecutions. Through all the din she declaimed her ringing sentences. The crowd listened with intense interest, and finally the students lapsed into silence. With deliberate malice, Miss Longsdorf had composed the finest oration ever heard in Carlisle, and her manner of delivery was simply perfect. When she closed there was a burst of applause that shook the building.

Throughout the whole affair this audacious young woman proceeded on the outrageous assumption that the male juniors enjoyed no rights superior to her own. Of course the helpless boys could not contend against such overwhelming odds. They were beaten, routed, mangled, as it were, and as a climax to their misfortunes were further mortified by seeing their cruel antagonist bear off the gold medal in smiling triumph. If this sort of thing is to continue, the boys of the land must organize in self defense against a ruthless foe.

Concerning Cholera.

At this season of the year citizens everywhere should be compelled to keep their premises clean. They should be advised by their health authorities to make free use of lime and copperas. A hot spell following our heavy rains will produce a great deal of sickness, and we cannot afford to neglect such simple preventive measures as are within our reach.

We do not believe that the danger of a cholera visitation is any greater than it was last year, but we may have a touch of diseases resembling cholera. It it is estimated that about 75,000 persons in this country will die during the hot weather of the next three months. Cholera morbus and dysentery will appear in many localities, and in many cases the symptoms will resemble those of Asiatic cholera.

Now this prospect is bad enough, and it justifies preparation in advance of any serious indications of disease.

Concerning the cholera itself, it may be well to state that its recent appearance in Trieste is regarded as threatening the rest of Europe. But it has reached no European port from which it is likely to be carried to this country. So no unusual cause for alarm exists. We are simply called upon to run a prudent summer schedule.

Mr. Cleveland and the Party.

The American Register, of Paris, prints a report of an interview with Mr. Henry Watterson, editor of the Courier-Journal, who is now sunning himself in Europe. Mr. Watterson, being in some sort a cosmopolite and a distinguished critic to boot, is disposed to take a pessimistic view of the political situation in the United States. He declares that Mr. Cleveland is "a well-meaning man," but his intelligence is not of the first order." According to Mr. Watterson, the president has been very unfortunate in the selection of his cabinet, and the result is that "the democratic party has been much divided, and that the administration of the present moment has not many friends."

The mistake into which Mr. Watterson falls has been made by a great many other people, including democrats as well as republicans. Some of the leading republican organs have a theory, which is very precious to them, to the effect that the president's candid and conscientious administration of the civil service laws has offended large numbers of democrats and practically divided the party. This notion has also been indulged in by a great many of the politicians who infest Washington.

That it is a foolish notion must be apparent to every one who knows anything about the views of the people. It is very true that the democratic voters do not admire the sham civil service reform which is the result of the law now in force, but they do not identify Mr. Cleveland as the author of that law. It is his duty to enforce it, and this he does. The people are for genuine civil service reform, and they know that the law, as it now stands, is a sham and a fraud, but there is no division in the party because Mr. Cleveland gives force and effect to the law.

If the politicians would take the trouble to get at the views of the people they would discover that the president is more popular today than he was when he took his seat.

A Word About Style.

Before Sam Jones visited Indianapolis the ministers and newspapers of that city viewed the coming of the evangelist with alarm. They expressed the fear that Jones's "billingsgate" and "slang" would have a demoralizing tendency.

The morning after Sam closed his meetings the city papers contained full reports with a batch of comment from the ministers who had attended the revival. We clip the following extract at random:

"Bully for Jeffery; bully for Jones!"—News Editorial.

"It will be kind o' lonesome."—Journal Editorial.

"Jones is a daisy."—A City Minister.

"I have been in the south, and there is a slam bang style there that is very different from our style."—Another City Minister.

Judging from these choice specimens, it takes unmitigated gall for the Indianapolis people to condemn the peculiar style of the earnest little man from Georgia. If the charge is true that he has a "slam-bang style," it will strike most of our readers that it loses nothing by comparison with the extracts quoted above. Our Sam uses plain United States English. He has a business style, and he means business. If he takes liberties with language in the excitement of the moment, it must be said that his Indianapolis critics seem disposed to meet him more than half way.

A Novel High License Scheme.

The Atlanta plan of prohibition under which it is proposed to down the evils of intemperance by turning loose turbid and tumultuous floods of domestic wine, has set men to thinking all over the country.

A Jersey City prohibition leader, after revolving the Atlanta plan in his mind, has come to the conclusion that, instead of driving men to one particular tipple, it would be better to diminish the quantity of liquors sold. He proposes to limit the number of licenses to so many per thousand population, say one license for every thousand inhabitants. These licenses are to be put up at auction, and are to be sold to the highest bidders, no bid of less than $500 being recognized. It is to be a condition that any violation of the terms and ordinances governing the business, will work an immediate forfeiture of the license.

It is argued, in favor of this system, that it will close the low dives, thus shutting off the poorer class of custom. The few dealers who pay heavy sums for their licenses, will have an interest in enforcing the law and keeping down drunkenness, because they will be closed up when their customers become intemperate and disorderly. The Jersey people have taken quite a liking to this plan, and it will probably be put to a test. We do not feel inclined to discuss the difference between the Jersey idea and the Atlanta idea. At the end of two years it will be in order to compare notes. It may be that Jersey City will then decide to give our act for the promotion of the wine traffic a trial.

LARRY GANTT says that General Gordon is a mere tool in the hands of the Atlanta ring. After awhile, Gantt will scratch the back of his head on his collar, and admit that General Gordon is a mere tool in the hands of the people.

THE Athens Banner-Watchman says that General Gordon's friends "are badly frightened." Observant as we are, we had not observed this.

A SENSATION has been stirred up in Philadelphia over the sale of General Grant's memoirs. The regular subscription price is seven dollars per set, and all contracts heretofore made have been on that basis. John Wannamaker has broken the market by announcing that he will sell the memoirs at five dollars and a half per set. The agents have set up a big howl, but the publishers say they don't know how Wannamaker got the books. Knowing ones, however, say it is a trick that has been played before by Mark Twain, who is one of the publishers of the memoirs.

AS TO brass bands—it is said that Mr. Bacon had a brass band at his heels the other day. Is this fair? Is it just? Why do not the Bacon organs denounce it in terms of exceeding bitterness?

PARSONS, the Chicago anarchist, says that when the bomb was thrown on the night of the Haymarket riot, he rushed home to his wife, and they agreed, after consultation, that flight was necessary. Parsons' hair and mustache are naturally an iron gray, but Parsons kept them dyed to a darker hue. His nearest friends knew him as a darkhaired man. As soon as Parsons decided to fly he went to work on his hair and mustache and soon made a complete change in his appearance. By morning he was disguised beyond recognition, and aboard a train was enroute to Omaha. He remained at a country house twenty-five miles from Omaha, writing regularly to his wife until he was advised to appear in court, which he did.

THE Macon Telegraph has printed its little Bacon table again. It is a comparatively modest affair, but all the Bacon votes are there.

THE Florida papers are printing some exceedingly favorable comments on Colonel John Temple Graves as a candidate for congress in the second district. Colonel Graves left Georgia several years ago and established the Jacksonville Herald. He made a fine reputation as a journalist, and in addition to that he is spoken of as the most eloquent man in Florida. Colonel Graves is receiving a vigorous support for the nomination, and his Georgia friends will be glad if he receives it. He is a young democrat of decided ability, with a clean record and unswerving integrity.

GENERAL LARRY GANTT says the result in Oconee was a great surprise to Mr. Bacon's friends. We do not doubt it. But Mr. Bacon's friends have other and severer surprises to suffer. They should be patient.

A BACON paper says that "Major Hanson followed General Gordon." This seems to be the trouble. Mr. Bacon is also following General Gordon, and he will follow him to the end.

REV. FATHER THEODORE LAUTER, a Catholic missionary who has been laboring in the Sandwich islands, is on his way to Rome. A day or two ago he gave a Chicago reporter an account of the state of affairs existing in the Sandwich islands. He says the king of that country does not intend to sell out as has been reported, for he has nothing to sell. The government is in a deplorable condition financially, and the king is a mere figure head dictated to by a few rich planters who own the lands. The king will not receive his own money for taxes in amounts greater than twelve dollars. The natives have become immoral and diseased, punny in body and in intellect. Father Lauter says that the natives are degenerating so rapidly that in forty years there will be no natives on the island. Nearly one half the population is afflicted with leprosy, which was introduced in 1853. It shows itself in the young children as well as in the old men and women. One island has been set aside for the lepers, and two thousand of the unfortunates are dragging out miserable lives there. The plague is not confined to that island, however, as often whole families will escape and go wandering about spreading the dreadful disease. That the disease is contagious is still denied by some. One doctor thinks that only certain persons are exempt. An instance is cited of a washer-woman, who for seventeen years has washed the clothes of the lepers, but who is still hale and hearty and untouched by the disease. Whether leprosy is contagious or not, all will agree that it is a bad thing to have around.

EDITOR WILLIAM MOORE appears to be determined to make a governor out of the editor of THE CONSTITUTION. Editor Moore will have to compromise on Gordon. The editor of THE CONSTITUTION is not a candidate.

JACOB SCHLOSSER, a New York millionaire, has a beautiful daughter named Cornelia. A day or two ago Mr. Schlosser picked up a paper and as he leisurely scanned the columns his eyes fell on the following advertisement:

ENGAGED.

MACHOLDT—SCHLOSSER—June 3, 1886, at the residence of her parents, Cornelia Schlosser to Emil C. W. Macholdt, both of New York city. Cards later.

When Mr. Schlosser saw that he tore his hair and rushed around to find Cornelia and ask her about it. She said the announcement was unauthorized. She had not promised to marry Emil C. W. Macholdt. That information had the effect of making Millionaire Schlosser madder than ever. Mr. Macholdt is a visitor at the Schlosser house but could not be found after the betrothal notice appeared. The next day the paper which published the notice contained the following:

ENGAGED.

MACHOLDT—SCHLOSSER.—The notice of June 22 of engagement of Miss Cornelia Schlosser to Emil C. W. Macholdt is an error.

JUDGE DAVID DAVIS, who lies at the point of death, was always a great friend of newspapers and ready to lend his services in their behalf. His belief in free speech and a free press was a matter of conscience, and he was ready to defend them in his seat on the bench, or as a personal friend and advisor of the president, or even—as on one occasion when he was presiding at a circuit court in an Illinois town—by mounting an improvised rostrum in the street and facing a desperate mob.

IN SPECIAL SESSION.

The General Council Convenes in Special Convention to Investigate.

The general council convened in special session yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Mayor Hillyer presided and the full delegation except Messrs. Stockdell, Cooper, Collier, Gramling, Garrett and Rice was present.

A petition for a repeal of the ordinance prohibiting the sale of second-hand clothing, adopted by the council at the last regular session, was presented and, upon motion, the adoption of the ordinance was reconsidered, and the entire matter was referred to the board of health and sanitary committee.

The Young Men's Christian association presented a petition for a building permit corner Pryor and Wheat streets, and a petition to have refunded the assessment for their paving corner Wheat and Pryor street. Both petitions were referred.

Mayor Hillyer stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of taking some action in reference to the alleged collusion between bidders for the work on Crew street.

Clerk Goldsmith then read the action of the aldermanic board on the bid which was the bids returned to the council with the request for a committee of investigation to be appointed to examine into alleged collusion among bidders.

Mr. Middlebrooks moved to concur in the action of the aldermanic board. The motion was adopted.

Mr. Maher arose and said that he wanted the investigation made thorough and that he desired the committee on investigation to be authorized to send for witnesses and for a justice of the peace to swear them.

The matter was referred to the street committee without discussion.

Mr. Anger offered a resolution instructing the committee on legislation to procure the passage of an act empowering council committees on investigation to send for proper witnesses and to administer an oath. The resolution was referred to the committee on legislation.

An ordinance directing the construction of a sewer on Capitol avenue from Crumley to Fulton street was adopted.

The following petitions were presented and referred to the proper committees:

Of A. C. Wyly, for building permit northwest corner of Peters and Pryor streets.

Of Fay & Eichburg, for building permission to remove building at 19 Whitehall street.

A VEGETABLE COW.

The Wonderful Yield of Milk from a Plant in Mexico.

Correspondence Milwaukee Sentinel.

What the "western reserve" is to Ohio, or the Orange county dairy region is to New York city, the plains of Apam and Otumba are to Mexico's capital—with this difference, that instead of cows, the Agave Americana (here known as maguey), is milked, and pulque is the product. Some idea of the magnitude of this singular industry may be derived from the fact that two special pulque trains run daily into the city of Mexico with the same regularity that the milk trains come into our metropolitan cities, yielding the railroad an average income of $1,000 per diem for freightage. The government derives an equal revenue from the duty alone on pulque brought from these celebrated "Llanos (plains) de Apam"—for it is estimated that more than 300,000 pints of it are consumed every day in the capital city. Maguey—more commonly know at the north as the "century" plant—is as much a feature of this country as trees are of the United States. All over the land it flourishes, cultivated with care in many places, but springing up as a weed in waterless deserts, and growing at its best on the stony sides of the mountains. Every Mexican hacienda raises more or less of it. The mighty plants serve to mark the boundaries of lots and lands, and two rows of them, with their gigantic leaves and bayonet-like thorns, forming an impenetrable fence. Not only are the hedge rows thus profitably utilized, but even sterile lands which rattle snakes disdain to inhabit will grow maguey, whose abundance of juice is the more astonishing since none can tell whence the mammoth plant derives any moisture. I have frequently seen an enormous "century" tree growing out of a bed of rock scarcely covered by a semblance of vegetable earth, flaunting its cimetar-shaped leaves, rich and green, from fifteen to twenty-five feet high. Neither heat nor cold, or drouth, affect it; but like the unfailing fountain in the desert, it furnishes the poorest Indian with the beverage most pleasing to his taste, without money and without price. The tradition that the century plant blooms but once in one hundred years is quite true, and any number of centuries might with equal propriety be added to the statement—for when its natural development has taken place, its destiny is fulfilled and it dies without loss of time. It is not often, however, that one sees the superb flower upon its colossal stem, for the moment that the experienced cultivator observes his plant preparing to bloom, he cuts a deep cavity in its heart and covers it over with the side leaves, after which all the juice which nature intended for the stalk and its flowers runs into the basin thus formed. During the growth of the maguey it throws out shoots which are removed from the parent stem in their second year when about three feet high. A shoot ready for planting, which costs a real (twelve and a half cents), will readily sell for from $10 to $15 when ready to bloom. The average age of a plant when it first begins to show signs of blossoming and is then capable of producing pulque, is fifteen years. Certain appearances, known only to the initiated, indicate when the central stem or hampe, which sustains the flower, is about to form in the heart of the plant. If the owner is not watching to cut it out at the proper time, the hampe shoots upward with the rapidity of Jack's historic beanstalk, absorbing all the sap which would otherwise make pulque. The sprouting of the stalk generally takes place in November or December, but the magnificent cluster of flowers does not form on its top till two months later. The monster leaf that envelopes the hampe gradually unfolds a slender stalk to the height of a telegraph pole (which it greatly resembles), and its crowning flowers are far beyond the reach of a man on horseback.

The juice of the maguey in its unfermented state is called aqua miel or "honey water," and is not unlike the freshly drawn sap of the sugar maple. By the addition of a little old pulque, fermentation takes place in two or three hours, and when supposed to be fit for drinking, it is thick, white and ropy like buttermilk, which it somewhat resembles in taste. An average plant yields about eight quarts of juice per diem, for a period not less than three months, after which the plant dies and is at once replaced by a new one which the provident owner has been raising from the shoots. The poorest maguey will yield at least 125 gallons of liquid before it dies. It is gathered from the basin cut into its heart by means of a a long gourd, into which a cow's horn—bored at the point—is inserted. Through this horn and into the gourd the juice is sucked, syphon-fashion, after which it is emptied into "pig-skin" buckets and carried to the vats.

The Superior Sex.

In his A Gentleman of Leisure, Edgar Fawcett, describing a lady's appearance, says "she wore a wine-colored dress." This is a man's brutal way of disposing of a costume which would have employed a woman's pen and powers for a minute and technical picture. A man almost always says of an indescribable dress (indescribable to him) that it was "of some soft and clinging material." That is all he knows about it. But no woman could slur over such a topic in such a way. She excels and revels in details. In Tulip Place, a novel written by a lady, there are descriptions of bric-a-brac, toilets, and repasts more minute than the most accomplished man reporter of a presidential wedding could possibly compass in a page of a New York daily paper. In the story of The Man Who Was Guilty, the fair author says that a bit of fabric thrown from a window "lodged on a spray of bon-silence roses." A man would have curtly referred to "a rose-bush."

"I must have a father for my children."

CONSTITUTIONALS.

Pencil Paragraphs and Editorial Shortstops Caught on the Run.

Mr. Henry W. Hilliard has recently been spending some days in Washington. How different is the city of today from that which he saw when, forty years ago, he came here a handsome young whig congressman from Alabama, with the prestige of having defeated William L. Yancey, the most brilliant orator of the south! Not a man now in congress was here when Mr. Hilliard entered that body. A new generation has arisen. Only a few days ago I saw Mr. Winthrop, of Massachusetts, at the capitol. He and Mr. Hilliard entered congress about the same time and are about the same age. Mr. Winthrop is a patriarch in appearance, slow of step, and in feeble health. Time has been gentler with Mr. Hilliard. His figure is erect, his eyes bright and his step elastic. He has preserved his mental and physical vigor to a remarkable degree. The warm friendship which sprang up between the two young whig congressmen forty years ago has continued unbroken, and Mr. Hilliard regretted very much that he did not reach Washington in time to meet his old friend.

Mr. Hilliard tells me that he has in preparation and almost completed a book of his reminiscences at home and abroad. He was a prominent factor in politics in the stormiest days of the republic. His service as minister to Belgium when a young man, and at the court of Brazil in his ripe years, gave him a rich store of information concerning foreign affairs. He has just completed his arrangements with a New York publishing house, and the book will probably appear in the fall.

The news of the death of his friend, Judge James Hillyer, reached Mr. Hilliard while he was in Washington. He said of Judge Hillyer: "He was a noble man. His life was remarkably pure, and he went down the valley with a sweet, contented spirit. Some several weeks ago I visited him at his home in Decatur, and he was the picture of serene old age. He was intensely fond of his home, and with an enthusiastic pride, he said: 'I would not exchange it for Windsor or Balmoral.'"

Senator Zeb Vance is a thorough democrat in every sense. He converses with his fellow citizens in the bumblest walks of life with as much liveliness as he exhibits at a presidential reception. His abounding humor is elicited by the slightest occasion. The other afternoon he was riding in a herdic down from the capitol in company with four or five other senators. A news boy jumped on the vehicle and offered the afternoon papers. Senator Vance, with a merry twinkle of his eye when the papers were handed to him, said:

"No, sonny, I can't read."

The boy looked at him hard and offered his papers to the other senators. Just as he was ready to step out of the herdic he shook his finger at Senator Vance, and said: "The devil will get you for lying yet." There was a general laugh in which the North Carolina senator heartily joined. He called the boy back and reached in his pocket for his change, but the little rascal had darted away to find a fresh victim.

One of President Cleveland's good traits is his love of children. A few days ago Mr. Blount took Mr. John Van Syckel with his wife and their little four-year-old boy to see the president. Mr. Cleveland took the little fellow in his arms and kissed him. The flaxen haired child, and the president had a conversation extending over several minutes. Joe Brown Connolly, of Atlanta, the eight-year-old son of Dr. E. N. Connolly, enjoys an intimate acquaintance with the president, and calls at the white house whenever his mother brings him to Washington.

Hon. Tim Tarsney, of Michigan, and Hon. Tim Campbell, of New York, are two of the liveliest Irishmen in congress. Tarsney is the man who laid out old man Horr in Michigan, and will do so again next fall. Campbell represents Sunset Cox's district in New York city. He is a practical printer, who has worked his way up by energy, honesty, and good sense. Forney charges Campbell with a "bull" which he alleges was perpetrated in the congressional restaurant the morning after the president's reception. Several members were discussing the grand event of the preceding evening. Something complimentary was said about Mrs. Cleveland, when Champbell remarked, "gentlemen, she comes from good stock. I know her father well, and if she is as good a woman as he was, she is good enough for any of us."

Gathering Roses.

O, the deliciousness
Of the fresh season!
Red roses, white roses,
Roses past reason.
Out of my gardenful,
Sweetheart, the sweetest cull—
Sweetest for posies.
O, the unspeakable,
Untold deliciousness!
Gathering roses.

Where shall she stoop to pluck?
Lo! where she lingers,
Now over this one with
Wavering fingers,
Now over that one—Ah!
All are so beautiful,
Which shall my sweetheart cull?
Sweetest for posies.
O, the undreamable,
Undreampt deliciousness!—
Gathering roses.

Frail, odoriferous
Sweet-briered eglantere,
Thorn-studded, cluster-leaved
Pink ottar roses;
Nay, sweetheart, have a care!
Touch not the Cercean snare,
Cull not that rose for me,
She will be pricking thee,
Making my posies.
All are so beautiful,
Which shall my sweetheart cull,
Sweetest for posies?
O, the untunable,
Unsung deliciousness!
Gathering roses.

Gold-hearted, plush-petal'd
Marechal Neil roses;
Almost upon your stem
The hard scissors closes.
Moss-crested, moon-colored
Nonpareil roses—
Nay! thou't the day-couch
Where Cynthia reposes.
Virgin-immaculate
Pale climbing roses,
Where mariposa
Forgetfully dozes;
Half-opened, delicate
Dainty tea roses,
Losing your beauty
The more it unloses:
Passionate, deep scented
Jacquemenots,
Sweetest and cruelest
Blossom that blows,
Save, little sweetheart mine,
Not with the scissors' tips
Can you cull the sweetest rose,
For it blows upon your lips—
Sweetest rose in Paradise,
Cruelest rose in Paradise
And this moment, stooping down,
Lo! I cull it for mine own.
Spite of thorns within your eyes,
Cull me a whole heartful,
Life's sweetest posies.
O, the ineffable
Eden-deliciousness!
Gathering roses.

TODAY'S CONTEST.

FIELD DAY AMONG THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE.

Nineteen Counties to Cast Their Votes for the Gubernatorial Candidates—The Contests in Coweta, Troup, Lincoln, Harris, Chattooga, Gilmer, Meriwether and Others.

Nineteen counties will select delegates today.

The names of the counties and the number of delegates they are entitled are as follows: Harris, four; Meriwether, four; Troup, four; Coweta, four; Pike, four; Hall, four; Dade, two; Webster, two; Lincoln, two; Lowndes, two; Terrell, two; Taylor. two; Baker, two; Jones, two; Miller, two; Whitfield, two; Pierce, two; Chattooga, two; and Glynn, two.

This makes a total of fifty delegates that will be selected today.

There are six counties that cast four votes each. Five of these, Harris, Troup, Coweta, Pike and Meriwether are grouped together, and each one of these is hotly contested. In Troup and Coweta the fighting is especially bitter. Both candidates have spoken in Newnan and LaGrange, and other speakers have had joint discussions there. Each party is thoroughly organized in every district of the two counties, and every inch of ground will be contested. In Coweta the fight is unusually close. There are thirteen districts in the county and each district is entitled to ten votes in a county convention. The candidate therefore that carries seven districts out of the thirteen will carry the county and get its four votes in the convention. There are only three districts of the thirteen that are conceded to either candidate. The other ten are very doubtful, and it is said that a change of six to ten votes in each district would change the result. Last night such orators as Judge Buchanan, Senator Ray Mr. Whatley and others, were out in the county precincts speaking for General Gordon, while Messrs. Post, Brewster and Turner, ex-members of the legislature, were out to speak for Major Bacon. It is stated that every vote in every district has been canvassed time and again, and each central committee has lists which show how every vote will be cast. It is, of course, impossible to predict the result. The polls do not open until two o'clock, so that it will be late tonight before the result is definitely announced. In Lincoln, Lowndes, Pierce and Glynn the fight will be close and interesting. Dade, Chattooga, Terrell and Webster have been generally conceded to Bacon, but will be stoutly fought over. In general terms, General Gordon's friends hope to hold their lead of last Sunday and increase it. In other words, they hope that tomorrow's count will show that the gap between Bacon and Gordon has been still further widened. THE CONSTITUTION has made arrangements for reports from every county, and unless our plans fail, we will print tomorrow morning the result of the election in all the counties.

EFFINGHAM VOTES

Will Take Bacon if a Dark Horse Don't Interfere.

GUYTON, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Effingham county assembled in mass meeting at Springfield today, to select gubernatorial, congressional and senatorial delegates; also to nominate a representative.

The gubernatorial delegates go instructed to support a man not yet announced, but as between Gordon and Bacon, they are to support the latter. For the lack of organization, Gordon was defeated by a very small majority. Captain Clark, a prominent republican, and his followers combined with the Bacon men, and defeated a motion to elect delegates by primary. The congressional delegates will support Norwood. The senatorial delegates are uninstructed, but will support a countryman as against a Savannahian. Colonel Rawls was nominated for representative, defeating Mr. Morgan, the present incumbent.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

"One of the Old Guard" writes from Early county in reference to the pending struggle, addressing his old comrades:

There exists at this time in the state of Georgia one of the most exciting and bitter campaigns for gubernatorial honors that we ever experienced. It seems that some parties without the fear of God, and instigated by the devil, are using their might and main to blackmail, vilify and abuse that great and noble patriotic soldier John B. Gordon, undoubtedly the greatest and grandest living general officer of the lost cause. How any old soldier can conscientiously oppose him I cannot conceive, a man at all times who stood ready and willing to lead them to victory or death. Where the battle raged hottest there he was ever found. When it tried men's very souls, did you not believe at the time, amidst the roar of battle, the rattle of musketry, while advancing on to victory, that you, your comrades and your general were the greatest heroes that ever lived? Do not forget how you faced death with that gallant leader; remember your promises then to the men away back in the rear, out of all danger, in a bomb proof, while every able bodied man were needed to the front where you was. You know you had no love for them then. Our Bacon friends say let us forget the war and the issues let them die and remember them no more. Well, I don't much blame them for advocating that kind of doctrine. Their man hasn't got a very brilliant war record. He had as little to do with the bullet department as he possibly could. Hence I don't blame them for wanting nothing said about the war record, and I cannot find where Mr. Bacon has made a record at any thing except being a chronic seeker after gubernatorial honors; so much so that he has become a nuisance to our body politic. If his army life had been brilliant, would his friends not have proclaimed it from the housetops, as one of the grandest heroes that ever lived? Does any one doubt it? I appeal to you, fellow-comrades, to remember that grand old soldier, John B. Gordon, and rally to his banner once and bear him on to victory, and bury so deep his slanderers that they will never be resurrected again.

A Wrightsville correspondent, describing General Gordon's reception at that place says:

After his address the ladies pressed forward eager to grasp the hand of the battle-scarred veteran. Some saying "they had trusted father and husband and son with him amid shot and shell, and he had defended them from the oppressors wrongs in the halls of the nation, and they desired now to trust him with the office of governor of this state." Enthusiasm was great, and you may depend upon it, the "wool hats" of the "wire grass" are solid for Gordon.

Major Joe Blance, of Polk county, candidate for the nomination to represent the seventh district in congress, made a splendid speech to a large audience assembled in the courthouse in Paulding county, many ladies being present.

A prominent and influential citizen of Gwinnett county writes thus of the feeling in his county:

You didn't run any risk in vouching for me for Gordon in preference to almost any man living, much less Adjutant Bacon.

My district is solid for Gordon. I don't think Bacon will get five votes in it. I don't know of but three and I learn they are weakening. All the lawyers in Lawrenceville are for Bacon, except Sam J. Winn and his son, Courtland, and a young McDonald. The town is nearly evenly divided. We claim Gordon in the lead about eight votes. My information is that this district, Bay Creek, Ben Smith's, Cain's, Sugar Hill, Suwanne, Duluth, Norcross and Birkshire are for Gordon by large majorities. Rockbridge, Cates, Harbin's, and Martin's may be on an average about equally divided. We have got to fight Bill Simmons and Peeples and Judge Hutchins in the convention. We wanted a primary election, but we are going to fight them on their own ground, and we will whip the fight, too. Mark that. All the Winn's, including the old major, are enthusiastic Gordon men. W. T. Smith, of Buford, is fighting Gordon; he has a letter in this week's Herald. He aims to go to the legislature this fall, but he will find that that letter will not help any.

I can excuse a man who, from personal reasons, supports Mr. Bacon if he will go along and not abuse Gordon. But I have no patience with those who expect to raise their man into the gubernatorial chair by abusing one of the purest men that Georgia ever produced.

Yes, put down Gwinnett four for Gordon.

THE TRIALS OF '76.

General Gordon's Participation Therein Recalled.

AMERICUS, Ga., June 25.—Editors Constitution: Have just been conversing with an offensively partisan Bacon man.

"Yes," he says, "I believe that he, General Gordon, stole that horse and wagon, and I am also, satisfied that he was chiefly instrumental in selling out Tilden and the democratic party in 1877." As to the first charge, I will not notice—it is too contemptible for one moment's contemplation. As to the latter charge, he is respectfully referred to the record of history, and to the people of South Carolina and Louisiana, whose boundless gratitude is as universal today as it was in 1877. They are satisfied, and so are the great mass of the people in this state satisfied, that nothing but exalted patriotism and sagacious statesmanship actuated and controlled all of General Gordon's actions during the trying ordeal of '76 and '77. It is easy for memory to recur back a decade to those trying times through which our country passed. Was not every intelligent person in the land absolutely satisfied that the republican party, which, at that time, controlled the army, and many had firmly resolved to seat Hayes, even if it involved the country in civil war. Did not General Grant amass a large military force at Washington, ostensibly for the purpose of preserving the peace, but in reality to seat Hayes by force, if necessary? Who in this country at that time doubted its meaning? If up to this time any doubts whatever had been entertained by the most hopeful of the democratic party as to the determination of the republican party? Was not every vestage of such hope dispelled when the electoral commission began its eight to seven count? It was about this time that General Gordon nobly resolved to save from the wreck two gallant and suffering southern states, viz, South Carolina and Louisiana, who were then groaning under the iron heel of the most terrible despotism that ever affected any community. We in Georgia, even in the darkest days of congressional reconstruction, had no adequate conception of the miseries that affected said states. The vile and worthless carpet-baggers (the scum of their army followers), supported by federal bayonets, ruled supreme in each of the said unfortunate states. Neither life, liberty or property were respected by these carpetbag villians. General Gordon, while fully appreciating all this, also well knew that Hayes fully realized the weakness of his tenure and that he (Hayes) naturally apprehended that some unforseen evil to himself such as a fillibustering in the house or bloody resolution itself might take place was prepared to grant the reasonable request of General Gordon that the troops should be removed from South Carolina and Louisiana, thereby restoring the state government in the said states. Hayes kept his promise. The troops were removed, and ere long they were in full and happy possession of their right to self-government. And to this day their gratitude to General Gordon cannot in words be expressed. They are amazed that even a small number of Georgians should for one moment listen to or tolerate any of the vile slanders that are daily promulgated by the Bacon organs. They not only aver that they would vote for him for governor, but would heartily rejoice of an opportunity to vote for him for president of the United States.

The Bacon organs have persistently endeavored and are now endeavoring to destort this noble and disinterested action into a crime, a bargain and sale, by which he (Gordon, is made solely responsible for the presidential swindle, General Grant, Zach Chandler, and the electoral commission to the contrary notwithstanding.

By reference to the Congressional Record of February, 1877, it will be seen that General Gordon more prominently than many other democratic senators from his place in the senate resisted step by step the consumation of the electoral swindle. Just one or two days before the nefarious business was consumated by the commission, two democratic senators and fifteen democratic members of the house made the following protest as to the validity of one of the electors from Rhode Island. How is the Record?

ELECTORAL VOTE OF RHODE ISLAND.

The president pro tempore. The senate having returned from the joint meeting of the two houses upon the objection submitted to the certificate of the state of Rhode Island, the secretary of the senate will now read the objection.

The secretary read as follows:

"The undersigned, senators and representatives, do hereby object to counting the vote of William S. Slater, alleged elector of the state of Rhode Island, and as reasons therefor assign the following:

"First. That the said William S. Slater was not duly appointed elector by the state of Rhode Island at the election in said state on the 7th day of November, 1876.

Second. That George H. Corliss, according to the decision of the electoral commission rendered in the counting of the vote of John W. Watts, elector of the state of Oregon, if said decision be law, was duly appointed elector by the state of Rhode Island and the substitution for him of the said S ater was illegal and unconstitutional.

Third. If in any event it was competent to complete the electoral college of Rhode Island by adding another elector thereto, it could only have been done under the law as announced by the said electoral commission, if said decision be law, and pursuant to the laws of said state by act of the majority of the members of said college and not by the legislature of said state.

JAMES K. KELLY, J. B. GORDON, Senators, WM. J. O'BRIEN, R. Q. MILLS, G. A. JENKS, L. A. MACKEY, A. V. RICE, JOHN L. VANCE, FRANK L. HURD, J. J. FINLEY, A. T. WALLING, E. F POPPLETON, M. I. SOUTHARD, E. J. HENKLE, J. K. LUTTRELL, A. M. WADDELL, WM. P. LYNDE, Representatives.

Page 1924, Congressional Record, February, 1877.

I merely cite this as one single instance, and allow me to say in conclusion that the people of Georgia are too intelligent, their memories too vivid of the dark past to allow for one moment the bright escutchen of John B. Gordon to be marred or dimmed by the tongue of slander. Yes, he is now being tried in the fiery furnace of vile slander, detraction and abuse. Yet how calmly, how bravely he bears himself. Without bitterness, without shrinking, he boldly meets all assaults, calmly and clearly answering all questions, bearing himself through the storm like the noble man he Respectfully, SUMTER.

DID THE ADJUTANT FIGHT.

An Old Soldier Recalls the Days of Bacon's Presence With the Army.

AMERICUS, Ga., June 25.—Editors Constitution: I have just read the communication signed by one E. W. Butler in the Macon Telegraph of last Sunday, June 20th, in which he professes to reproduce what Captain John T. Wingfield says about "the beardless adjutant." He quotes the captain as saying: "I have seen Gus Bacon when danger was in every breeze and death stalked everywhere." Now, I take pleasure in indorsing all that Mr. B. has to say about the gallant captain himself, who was a good, true and brave soldier and served the confederacy faithfully to the end, but I must say that either Mr. B. has misquoted Captain W. or allowed his partisan zeal to get the better of his recollection if his language was intended to apply to the adjutant during the time he was connected with our regiment for company A 9th Georgia in which Wingfield was then a lieutenant was detached from the regiment and transferred to artillery service in the summer of 1861 before we had ever been under fire a single time. It is a fact known to all who remained with the regiment that the adjutant left us immediately after his and our first experience under fire, though we were not engaged in the fight. I have conversed with some of our old comrades, and our recollection is that he was a fine, healthy-looking man at that time.

The language of the captain must have been intended to apply to the adjutant's twelve years fight for the gubernatorial chair, and I agree with him that in this political battle "danger is in every breeze and death stalks everywhere," for the people are shooting a perfect hail storm of ballots (not bullets) against Bacon's aspirations in this line, and if he doesn't again retire from the front he will soon be crushed by the biggest kind of a bomb fired by the democratic voters of Georgia.

Respectfully, L. B. BOSWORTH. Co. K, 9th Ga. Reg't.

Muscogee County Executive Committee.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 25.—[Special.]—Ex-Governor Smith, chairman of the recent mass meeting, has appointed the following executive committee for Muscogee county: Lowertown district, Rollin Jefferson, T. M. Foley and T. J. Bates; Uppertown district, B. H. Crawford, C. H. Herring and H. Bussey; Nance's district, T. M. Russell, Steam Mill district, E. P. Willis; Upatoie district, J. W. Jackson; Edward's district, Robert Simpson; Bozeman's district, J. H. Brooks.

How They Stand.

VICTIMS OF MACON INSURANCE.

Something for the Macon Telegraph to Ponder Over.

COCHRAN, Ga., June 25, 1886.—Editors Constitution: As Major Bacon's Macon organ has so much to say about General Gordon having been connected with an insurance company which failed, I call attention to the fact that many of our citizens held policies in a Macon company (the Home Guardian) which recently failed, and of which Captain S. S. Dunlap, one of the best business men of Macon, was president, and in which some of the best business men in Macon held other offices.

Several of our citizens paid sums amounting to over one hundred dollars to this company, and yet I am told that Captain Dunlap was preaching up the failure of Gordon's company to one of Pulaski's citizens in Macon, the other day, but failed to say a word of his own defunct company. Very truly,

JUSTICE TO ALL.

THEY ARE SOLID GORDON MEN.

The Macon Telegraph's Last Inglorious Fizzle.

JONESBORO, June 25.—Editors Constitution: The gubernatorial outlook here is practically unchanged. The people here have looked upon the result as only a matter of time, when General Gordon will be nominated and elected governor of Georgia.

The recent publication by the Macon Telegraph of the names of General Gordon's "victims," like all other of its abortive efforts, has fallen dat. We have taken the pains to pole the list published from Jonesboro, and find every single man of them who are now here and living to be solid Gordon men, and one of these men, J. J. Hanes, is a leading man on the Gordon delegation from this county. They laugh at and scorn the idea that General Gordon is in any way responsible directly or indirectly for the failure of the insurance company. They say he and another man were only general agents for the state, and that the regular solicitor for insurance was a distinguished Presbyterian divine, against whom no man on earth could truthfully utter a syllable of reproach. We think it would be safe to wager that four-fifths of the whole list are Gordon men.

The Pretty, Pretty Fan.

Beerman, the soda water palace manager, has received from New York the handsomest Mikado fan ever seen in Atlanta. Last night he distributed five hundred of them at the opera house.

If you want to procure the prettiest fan in the south, and one that will make more breeze than a windmill, call to see Beerman today. They are for ladies only.

'Red Lion" Elixir for pains in the bowels.

Fine Vegetables.

Some of the finest vegetables seen in Atlanta this season were sent to this office yesterday by Mr. F. L. Constantine. They comprised immense beets, squashes, Irish potatoes and onions. Mr. Constantine raised these vegetables in his garden at 58 Wheat street. He is certainly a big success as a gardener.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE, Advantageous in Dyspepsia.

Dr. G. V. DORSEY, Piqui, Ohio, says: "I have used it in dyspepsia with very marked benefit. If there is deficiency of acid in the stomach, nothing affords more relief, while the action on the nervous system is decidedly beneficial."

"Red Lion" Elixir is perfectly harmless.

Armstrong Lecture Association.

Tonight Dr. Armstrong will deliver his fifth lecture at the opera house. Subject: "Genesis." It is an excellent subject, and Dr. Armstrong will make it quite interesting. All are invited. Admission free.

The Bird Show.

The bird show, on Marietta street, is quite a popular place, and continues to draw large crowds. Quite a number of ladies visited it yesterday, and were highly entertained. They think it very instructive, and advise all who have not seen it to go and carry their children.

It is really the best cheap show that has been here this year, and certainly is worthy of patronage. It is the largest and finest exhibit of birds ever in Atlanta, and also a large collection of animals. Among them is the African anteater, Brazilian monkeys, baboons, prairie dogs, squirrels, and the "what is it?" from Asia, which is certainly a strange thing, being so different from anything else that no one has ever found a name for it. When you go to the show be sure and see it, for you will never see anything else like it.

The vampire is also a great curiosity, and perhaps you will never have a chance to see another, as there are only two in America. Go and see it, by all means.

Ladies

Who use SOZODONT have only to open their lips to prove its excellence. Their white, gleaming, spotless teeth, and fragrant breath will tell the story. There is more demand for this wholesome and unexceptionable preparation than for any other dentifric in the market.

Ask your druggist to show you "Red Lion' Elixir.

Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating. It will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system. They make one feel as though life was worth living.

"Red Lion" Elixir is the "go."

It was announced, not long ago, that the picnic would be at Grant's park, but, as the majority of the boys desire to go to Ponce de Leon, in order that they may go in swimming, it has been decided to change it to that place. All friends of the association not over seventeen years old, are earnestly requested to attend. Be at the Y. M. C. A. rooms at 8:30 p.m. today, and be sure to bring a lunch basket with you. The picnic will be a good one, and it is hoped that there will be a great many present. It is free, with the exception of ten cents for car fare to springs and return.

TRUSTEES' SALE.

Property of the Columbus Manufacturing Company.

Complete and fully equiped cotton factory, together with nearly a mile of the finest water power on the Chattahoochee river, just above the city of Columbus.

STATE OF GEORGIA, MUSCOGEE COUNTY—By virtue of the power vested in us under the terms and conditions of a certain deed of trust executed to the undersigned J. Rhodes Browne and A. Illges, trustees, by the Columbus manufacturing company, of Muscogee county, state of Georgia, dated March 1, 1884, whereby the said corporation conveyed to us all the property, real and personal, hereinafter described, in trust, to secure the payment of its certain issue of bonds and the interest coupons thereof as in said trust deed specified and enumerated (all of which appears duly of record in Mortgage Deed Book "A," folios 367 to 373, March 5, 1884, in the clerk's office of superior court Muscogee county, Georgia and in Record Deeds, volume O O, pages 81 to 88 inclusive, March 22, 1884, office of the probate court in the county of Lee, state of Alabama, and in conformity with the directions and terms prescribed in the resolutions passed by the holders of said bonds, on April 24, 1886, under the authority conferred by said deed of trust.

We will sell in the city Columbus, Muscogee county, Georgia, on the 3d day of August, 1886, between the legal hours of sale, in front of the auction house of F. M. Knowles & Co., on the northwest corner of Broad street and Tenth (formerly Crawford street,) (being the usual place for sheriff's sales in said city of Columbus) at public outcry, to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property of the Columbus manufacturing company, to-wit: All those lots and parcels of land situated, lying and being, as follows: Fractional section number twenty-six (26) and the north half of fractional section number thirty-five (35), both in fractional township number eighteen (18), range number thirty (30) in formerly Russell now Lee county, state of Alabama. Also the following lots of lands lying and being in the eighth district of Muscogee county, state of Georgia, known as lots number eighty-six (86) and eighty-seven (87) and the west half of lot number seventy-four (74) and fractions numbered ninety-one (91) and ninety-two (92), and island number three (3) in Chattanoochee river, and a small enclosure situated east of the residence formerly occupied by J. R. Clapp, used as a residence and grazing lot, containing seven (7) acres more or less. All of said lands last described lying and being in the county of Muscogee and state of Georgia, and together with said lands in Lee county, Alabama, containing eight hundred and thirty (830) acres more or less.

Also, all of the said Columbus manufacturing company's buildings on said land in Muscogee county, Ga., operated as a cotton factory, and with all of the improvements in any manner appendant and appurtenant thereto, inclusive of the cards, spindles, looms, machinery and fixtures of every kind whatever contained in said buildings also all and singular the other improvements on all of the lands aforementioned and described; also the entire water power owned and controlled by said Columbus manufacturing company on and in said Chattahoochee river, together with all and singular the rights and franchises by the said Columbus manufacturing company held and possessed therein under the laws of Georgia.

The plant of said cotton factory consists at present of 4,544 spindles, 149 looms and other suitable machinery, all in good condition and producing good work. Present capacity 7,500 yards a day of heavy sheetings and shirtings, three yards to the pound.

The operatives' houses and improvements generally in excellent condition, labor abundant, lands elevated and location of property unsurpassed for health, convenience and economical production—free from the burden of municipal taxes paid by all the other Columbus mills, yet within three miles of the city of Columbus and three quarters of a mile of Columbus and Rome railroad. The water power is the finest in the south, controlling and embracing the whole bed of the Chattahoochee river for the distance of about one mile along the lands of the company, said lands extending along its banks upon the Georgia and Alabama sides of the river. Only a small portion of the water power is required and utilized in running the present mill and the natural falls in the river render but a simple inexpensive dam of logs and plank necessary. This magnificent water power is easily controlled and has a fall of forty-two and a half (42½) feet within three-quarters (¾) of a mile. With a comparatively small expenditure upon a new dam, 125,000 (one hundred and twenty-five thousand) spindles with looms in proportion can be driven by this water power. Capital for the erection of additional mills and utilization of the immense power now wasted, is all that is needed to make this property the site of a prosperous and populous manufacturing village. The personal inspection of capitalists is invited. Full and satisfactory details will be furnished on application.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Coal stocks became the principal favorites at the stock exchange today, and utterances in regard to a dividend on Lackawanna were all of a rose colored nature, and that stock became the principal speculative card. The dealings, beyond a few favorites, were almost without feature. There was liberal buying by a Chicago party of Granger stocks, and they are also believed to have bought considerable Lake Shore and Lackawanna. Considerable help was given the advance in the morning by London advices quoting American stocks active and advancing. There was, however, about $750,000 in gold ordered for export today, but the advance received no check until late in the last hour, and final prices are close to the best figures reached. The market was strong at the opening, first prices showing advances of from ⅛ to ½ per cent. There was then a steady advance until near the close, when in consequence of realizing the market became heavy and sagged off small fractions. The net result of the day's business is an advance in almost everything on the active list, Lackawanna being up 2 per cent, Delaware and Hudson 1½ and the remainder of the active list fractional amounts. Chattanooga made another jump today, being up 4⅞ per cent. Today's market indicated the complete command the bull cliques have over stocks. Sales 299,000 shares.

NEW YORK, June 25—C. L. Green & Co., in their report on cotton futures today, say: A liberal offering of July notices opened the market rather soft, and some 3@4 points were lost, but later the tone became much steadier and buyers were more anxious. The demand was especially good for next month to cover against short sales, as a prompt stoppage of a large number of notices led to an impression that a deal would be attempted in July. Better weather reports from the south modifies the danger from grass, and there is evidence of an increasing desire to sell the late months.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, June 25—The feature of interest on exchange today was speculation in pork, which, under good buying, advanced 35 cents per barrel, and closed in the afternoon at about the best figures of the day. The advance was caused by good buying throughout, both on local and outside orders. The strength in provisions was reflected somewhat in the other pits.

Wheat opened weak and lower at 74 for August delivery, owing to weak cables, but gradually gathered strength under steady buying orders, advancing to 75, and closing at about that figure at 1 o'clock, but receded to 74¾ in the afternoon.

Trading in both corn and oats was dull, and prices showed but little change.

DRUNKENNESS

Or the Liquor Habit, Positively Cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it, is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist.

Pencil Paragraphs Caught on the Fly by the Constitution Reporters.

HE IS NOT DEAD.—It was reported on the streets yesterday that Mr. R. P. Hill was dead. Last night a reporter met Mr. Hill who said: "I am about the livest corpse you ever saw. I have been sick at Dallas, but am not dead."

DEATH OF A CHILD.—The infant son of Mrs. and Dr. Avary died at their home in Decatur last evening. The funeral services will be held this morning at ten o'clock from the residence.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.—The treasurer of the board of trustees of the Young Men's Christian association building asks that subscribers to the building fund send in their checks for the second installment. Please send checks made payable to W. L. Peel, treasurer.

A CHANCE TO REGISTER.—The registry offices at the courthouse and at No 20 Peachtree will be kept open this afternoon until 9 o'clock to accommodate the workingmen and all others who wish to register their names. Those who wish the privilege of voting at the coming elections should register at once. Remember both offices will be kept open until 7 o'clock. You cannot register after today.

NOT THAT MUCH.—An untraceable error in the article on the sale of snuff in Atlanta, in yesterday's CONSTITUTION, placed the amount sold by Messrs. Harralson Bros. & Co. to certain merchants in West Point at sixty thousand pounds each every sixty days. It should have been one thousand pounds. Mr. P. H. Harralson says that he is reliably informed that Boston ranks as the largest snuff market in the United States, Memphis second and Atlanta third.

WHISKY AND BUTTER.—Collector Cronshaw yesterday received by express the kegs and whisky captured in Lumpkin county, and of which mention was made Thursday. One of the kegs was a ten gallon one, while the other was larger. The smaller keg was placed in the larger. To look at the small keg one would suppose it was filled with butter, but by digging down into the butter about four inches a false top could be found. The keg was filled with mountain juice, and the butter placed on top so as not to create suspicion when the juice was marketed. The revenue men say it is the shrewdest trick they ever heard of.

REAL ESTATE SOLD.—J. C. Hendrix & Co., the real estate men, yesterday sold several lots on Anderson and Frazier streets at public outcry. A large crowd was present and the bidding was lively. The lots were sold as follows: One lot on Anderson street, W. R. Ware, $910, one lot on Anderson street, A. A. DeLoach, $790; three lots on Frazier street, A. H. Crist, $900; two lots on Frazier street, Frank Burney, $600; one lot on Frazier street, W. A. King, $305; two lots on Bass and Martin, J. W. Rankin, $360; one lot on Martin, W. C. Henderson, $220; one lot on Martin, W. T. Turnbull, $160. Those present thought the sale a very good one.

AN OLD SOLDIER DEAD.—Lieutenant Martin Bridwell died at his residence, No. 11 Butler street, last night at eight o'clock. Lieutenant Bridwell was a member of company G, Third Georgia regiment and was in line during the entire war. He was a member of the Fulton County Veterans association, and all veterans are requested to attend his funeral on Sunday, at ten o'clock, the detail of which will be made today. Lieutenant Bridwell was well known among his comrades and his death will be deeply regretted by them. He has been a resident of Atlanta for the last fifteen years, having moved here from Augusta, where he was for a long time a member of the city council, and a prominent business man.

THE CONTRACT AWARDED.—On Monday next ground will be broken for the new building to be erected or corner of Pryor and Wheat streets for the Young Men's Christian association of Atlanta. The contract was closed last night, and Mr. E. F. Faciolle, of Atlanta, was the successful party. There were a number of bidders. A Chicago contractor was close to Mr. Faciolle, but the Atlanta builder got the work. The plans provide a building for the young men of Atlanta which will not only be an ornament to the city and the state, but will be the most perfect and commodious building of the kind in the south. The building, when complete will occupy a unique position among similar buildings in this country because of the phenominal manner in which the fund to build it was raised and because of its conspicuous isolation from the other buildings of the kind in the United States. The building will be five stories high, brick with stone top of first story. Finished with ornamental brick and terra cotta. The entire effect of this combination is one of great beauty. It will be one of the most beautiful buildings ever erected in Atlanta, and when finished will afford the Young Men's Christian association a perfect home.

THE ATLANTA WHEELMEN.—The Atlanta Bicycle club held an interesting meeting last night at their rooms, 8½ Marietta street. The meeting was called to order by the president pro tem. Captain Chalfant read an interesting account of their trip to Fairburn last Sunday. A communication was read requesting the club to be represented at Columbus during the races there. Mr. Homer Reed read a communication from Mr. Sidney Root, requesting them to appoint a committee to confer with him in regard to the location of an oval track in Grant park, and also telling them that he had graded and widened the Long Walk for the use of the club. Mr. Oliver Whitehead stated that he had received a proposition from the secretary of the Young Men's Christian association that, if the club would join the association, they would provide them with a track at Grant's park, and also a room in their new building free of charge. After some discussion, a committee was appointed to see Mr. Helmer, the secretary of the Young Men's Christian association and report to the club at the next meeting. The club is getting along finely. They have finished their rooms and are clear of debt, with money in the treasury.

THE NEW CAPITOL.—The board of capitol commissioners met in regular monthly session yesterday morning, on the grounds of the new capitol. All the members were present consisting of Governor H. D. McDaniel, Captain E. P. Howell, Hon. W. W. Thomas, Hon. A. L. Miller, General Phil Cook, and General E. P. Alexander. The building was carefully inspected and the progress of the work was found to be satisfactory. The board adjourned to the executive office after the inspection, where the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Architect Edbrooke was present and submitted his estimate of the work done and the material furnished in the construction of the building since his last report. The total estimates to date amounted to $271,238.57, which was an increase of $31,270.-88 over the total reported at the last meeting of the board. The material on the grounds was estimated at $39,535.57. The net amount due the contractors was $20,347.99, which was ordered to be paid. The new capitol begins to present an imposing appearance. Work has been commenced on the third story, and in a few more months the work on the roof will be begun. Mr. E. Smith, of Chicago, and Mr. T. A. Dungan, of the same city, are in the city. The former is making investigations preparatory to offering a bid to do the plastering, and the latter desires to bid on the fire proof work to be done.

TWO SHUT OUTS

IN THE SOUTHERN LEAGUE GAMES YESTERDAY.

Atlanta Plays a Brilliant Game Until the Ninth, When They Go to Pieces—Savannah & Charleston Have a Regular Slugging Match—Gloomy Rumors of the Augustas.

The Atlantas gave Nashville a game sveterday by careless, loose playing in the last half of the last inning.

When Nashville came to the bat last time the score stood: Atlanta, 5; Nashville, 2. Everybody felt certain of victory for the home team, and half the audience left. Suddenly, however, the Nashvilles jumped on to the ball and pounded it right and left for four runs and snatched victory out of defeat. The game was a pretty one throughout. Goldsby was fined $10 for disputing the umpire.

THE DETAIL.

The run getting did not begin until the second inning, which Beard opened with a clean two base hit to center, reaching third on a wild pitch. O'Brien took first on being hit by pitched ball, and Beard scored on Bittman's out at first.

In the third Conway hit to the ground, and the pitcher receiving the ball threw wild to first. Cline fouled out to first. Purcell sent a corker into Goldsby's garden, which the manager considerately muffed and away rolled the ball. Conway scoring and Purcell reaching third. Lyons hit to third and out at first. Lynch hit to right for a base and Purcell scored.

In the fifth, after Cline and Purcell had been outed, Lyons hit to third and Marr juggled the ball. Lyons stole second and come home on Lynch's safe hit to center. Stricker went out at first. Smith led off in the same inning with a hot one to Lyons which he was unable to hold. He took second on a wild pitch, and scored on Goldsby's hit to left for a bag.

Shafer opened the sixth with a neat two bagger into left center, stole second and came home on Williams's hit which was unsuccessfully used to throw him out at the plate.

In the seventh, Cline struck out. The third ball delivered to Purcell he rapped squarely on the trade mark, sending it skinning about four inches above the ground and just inside the foul line, way down into left field. It rolled into the ditch and then out again, Goldsby after it at a 2:10 gait, but it proved a trotter and never stopped till it reached the fence. By the time Goldsby had collared it and sent it back to the grand stand, Purcell had made the circuit of the bags and scored his seventh home run of the season.

There was no more run-getting indulged in until the visitors went to bat in the last half of the ninth. Everybody supposed, with the score 5 to 2, that the game had been won by Atlanta, and many left the grounds. O'Brien opened it by striking out. As he did so, the sawed off colored brother, who superintends the grounds, began to gather up the Atlantas' bats, and toted them off to the club house, despite the warnings of the superstitious that it was bad luck to do so. He had no more than disappeared inside the house when Bittman hit on to a nice ball and sent it flying down into Purcell's garden for a clean two-baser. He reached third on a wild pitch. Hellman hit a sharp one to Stricker, who threw to first in such a manner as to require Lynch to reach for it, and the umpire declared the runner safe, Bittman scoring. Smith then hit a liner, which Conway attempted to stop. He got his hand on it, but only succeeded in deflecting its course so the infielders could not get it in time to be used. Both Hellman and Smith were advanced a base by a pass; after which Sowders lined the ball into left field for a single, letting Hellman and Smith score, though the umpire stretched his imagination about ten feet in declaring the latter safe on a throw to the plate by Purcell. This tied the game, the umpire declaring but one man to be out. Goldsby's hit was an exact duplicate of Smith's. Conway's hand meeting it in such a way as to prevent the other fielders from securing it. Marr then hit to short. Cline threw to the plate to head off Sowders, but threw wild, the ball striking the ground and bouncing from Mappe's hands high into the air, and the Nashvillian came in with the run and the game in his pocket, while a disgusted crowd filed out of the grounds. The following is a diagram of the slaughter:

Chattanooga Shut Out.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—Chattanooga was defeated easily today by Memphis, with Knouff in the box. Schenkle officiated for Chattanooga, and was very wild, but allowed only seven hits. The locals could not hit Knouff, and had only four hits the entire game. It was an intensely interesting game.

Charleston Defeats Savannah.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The game this afternoon between Charleston and Savannah was noteworthy for bum playing on both sides. Both pitchers were batted freely, and the game deteriorated into a slugging match, with much loose playing on both sides.

They Don't Believe It.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 25.—[Special.]—When the news reached here this afternoon that Nashville had won a game it was received with an incredulous stare, but as it began to be generally circulated people poured out of their houses. Old men embraced each other and wept, and white haired women ran up and down the streets. Excitement was intense. Some conservatives will await mail advices to confirm the telegraphic report.

Diamond Dust.

Mappes will catch today for Atlanta, and will, of course, do brilliant work.

Shafer or Wells will pitch for Atlanta today, and the public can count on some excellent work.

Dundon will be in the box for Nashville and says that he intends to win the game at all hazards.

The game today will be called at 3:30, and is the last of the championship series before Atlanta leaves on her southern trip.

There will be championship games in Atlanta, doubtless, on July third and fifth, of which due notice will be given hereafter.

Atlanta intends to win today's from Nashville game so as to constitute three out of the four games played in this city. Watch the base running and hitting of the Atlantas today,

The H. W. Grady's will play the Americans at athletic park this morning at 9:30 o'clock. The Grady's will put up two batteries. The public invited. Admission free,

Today's is the last game that will be played on the grounds for three weeks; and one of the largest crowds of the season will witness the great Nashvilles and the champions.

The miserable fielding of the Atlanta infielders yesterday in the ninth inning gave Nashville the game. They will do no such work today on the diamond, as they intend to win to-day's game by excellent playing.

"Atlanta's Way."

The Charleston News and Courier's baseball reporter has discovered that Purcell used two balls during the first game played in that city. The reporter's discovery comes late—two months after the alleged offense was committed. He says:

Most people will recall an incident that occurred at Baseball park while the first series of Atlanta-Charleston games were being played, April 15 to 19. This incident was the unaccountable appearance in the diamond of two balls at the same time. The matter was the subject of a mild investigation on the part of Manager Cushman, and was explained by Manager Purcell on the theory that some boys had thrown the ball over the fence from the railroad yard. The extra ball was not a boy's ball, but the explanation was taken for what it was worth, and the matter was soon forgotten.

A reporter for the News and Courier, in conversation with a gentleman who was present on the ground at the time, learned yesterday "the true inwardness of the mystery of the double ball." The gentleman was sitting in his buggy near the left field fence. Manager Purcell was playing in the left field and the Charleston team was at the bat. During the inning some one of the Charleston team batted a ball to left field. It went over the fielder's head, and after striking the fence rebounded and then went into the ditch. The fielder started for it, but after running only a short distance took a ball from his shirt pocket and threw it on to the diamond. The remarkable rapidity with which the ball was fielded was loudly applauded at the time. The witness of this smart trick states that he told a colored man, who was in a buggy near him, to get the ball in the ditch and give it to him, and that the man started after it, but that the fielder stopped him, telling him to let it lie there. The fielder subsequently went to the ditch, picked up the ball and tossed it in the diamond.

The incident was witnessed by several people, and the statement can be substantiated if the proof is demanded. Of a truth, the Atlanta team has some sharp fielders in it. While this trick can scarcely be classed as "base stealing," it may be called a brilliant bit of field work.

"DUCIMUS VIAM."

GRADUATING EXERCISES OF THE GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL.

Thirty-nine Young Ladies Receive Their Diplomas—An Immense Audience Assembles to Witness the Pleasing Spectacle—The Bestowal of Honors—The Exercises.

DeGive's opera house never held a larger audience than that which assembled last night to witness the graduation exercises of the senior class of the Girls' High school. Long before eight o'clock every seat in the parquet and dress circle was occupied, and a young man was stationed on the stairway to inform new comers that they must seek seats in the galleries. When the orchestra began to play the introductory piece, but little standing room was left anywhere in the house.

The immense audience was a tribute to the fair young graduates infinitely more valuable than the applause and flowers so plentifully bestowed upon them during the rendition of the programme.

Thirty-nine young ladies, declared to be the equals of any that had previously graduated from the high school, were assembled upon the stage to bid farewell to school life. They were flushed with the glow of health, filled with pleasurable excitement, overflowing with high spirits, and when the curtain rolled up and revealed them standing in a half circle, presented a picture of beauty which is never seen except upon similar occasions. "Ducimus Viam," read the class motto upon the programme; "Carpe Dilm" was evidently the determination which actuated each of them whose names appeared upon it.

THE GRADUATING CLASS.

The graduating class was composed of the following young ladies:

FULL COURSE:—Lena Taliaferro Allen, Ada Allensworth, Emilie Barbara Agricola, Mamie Bass Lena Clifford Callaway, Louise S. Cunningham, Addie Duncan, Katie Durand, Cicilia Hardwick, Lela Hansell, Minna Matilda Harmsen. Mamie A. Hemphill, Annie E. Jordan, Gertrude Amelia Merchant, Mary Emma Motes, Jessie Muse, Clara Martin, Cornelia M. Mashburne, Lillie Orme, Ellie Phibbs, Mary Ella Reid, Clara Rosenbaum, Bessie Lee Spear, Nannie E. Tuttle, Haireline Tompkins, Cora Belle Thomas, Ora Woodbury, Carlotta Eugene White, Nellie Wood, Anne Elizabeth Williams.

Partial course.—Dora E. Dunwody, Mary Ella Ezzard, Homer A. Edwards, Maud Goldsmith, Mittie Eola Jones, Sophia A. Lynch, Janie McDermott, Maude Blanche O'Keefe, Edna Shropshire.

Part of the class appeared before the public at the opera house on Thursday morning. Last night only the honor graduates read essays on recital selections.

The programme, which was strictly adhered to, was as follows:

Prayer—Rev. Dr. G. L. Cheney.
March and Fan Drill—The class.
Music—"The Swallow"—Henry Leslie—The class.
Salutatory—Miss Nellie Wood (second honor).
Essay—The Spirit of Poetry—Miss Lena Allen (second honor).

Valedictory—"Shaking Hands as a Fine Art," Miss Jessie Muse. (First honor.)
Presentation of diplomas by Hon. David Mayer, vice-president of the board of education.
Music—"Graduating Hymn," the class.
Musical director—Professor A. W. Burbank.

WHERE HONOR IS DUE.

Superintendent Slaton was master of ceremonies, but behind the scenes, out of sight of the immense audience, a modest lady sat to whom the credit of the faultlessly presented entertainment was due. Miss Salonel McKinley, the principal of the Girl's High school, was the directress not only of last night's entertainment, but of that of Thursday morning. Her faithful training was observed in every graceful movement, in every eloquent essay, in every charming recitation. The rest which begins for her today may well be enjoyed, because she thoroughly deserves it. Not rest alone she deserves, but the grateful appreciation of every friend and patron of Atlanta's public schools.

Following the march and fan drill, which was a marvelously graceful exhibition, Superintendent Slaton read the names of those who had taken honors in the Boys' high school and of those who had taken honors in the Girls' high school.

HONORS IN THE BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL.

The former were as follows:

First Grade—W. H. Pope, first honor, 97.89; J. C. Battle, Jr., 97.89.

Second Honor.—Susie Battle, 95.4.

Third Class—B—First Honor.—Olive Graves, 97.079.

Second Honor.—Loie Waters, 96.351.

ESSAYS, RECITATIONS AND MUSIC.

When Superintendent Slaton finished reading the names of the honor pupils, Henry Leslie's charming song, "The Swallow," was rendered by the class, and then the salutatory, a bright and witty production, was read by Miss Nellie Wood. The essays, recitations and music which followed were all far above the average. Miss Lena Allen read pleasingly of "The Spirit of Poetry," and Miss Lela Hansell fittingly followed with a skillfully executed piano solo. Miss Lena Callaway's essay, "Straws," was original and pithy. Miss Cora Thomas's recitation, "The First Quarrel," marked her as the possessor of fine elocutionary powers. The song from Rossini provoked well merited applause. Then followed Miss Lottie White's thoughtful essay, "Noble Lives," a difficult but faultlessly renderd waltz song by Miss Mittie Jones, Miss Louise Cunningham's poetic and forcibly read essay, "He that hath not silver in his purse, must have it on his tongue," and Miss Mary Ella Reid's thrilling recitation, "The Sioux Chief's Daughter." The song, "Spring," was sung by the class, after which Miss Jessie Muse read the valedictory, "Shaking hands as a fine art." This was a departure from the stereotyped valedictories decidedly refreshing.

Mr. Hoke Smith was introduced by Superintendent Slaton, at the conclusion of the valedictory. He announced that Miss Ida M. Hubner had won the Peabody silver medal for the best composition, and then delivered a forcible address to the class.

The graduating hymn, written by Miss Clara Martin, was sung, after which Hon. David Mayer presented the diplomas to the graduates.

Throughout the evening, the immense audience maintained the most perfect order, those who composed it evincing alike their sense of propriety and their deep interest in the young ladies just ready to begin to meet the realities of life.

THE GRAMMAR SCHOOLS.

What the Pupils in the Grammar Schools Did Yesterday.

Atlanta's public schools have closed.

The closing exercises yesterday and last night were largely attended, and reflected credit upon the board of education, the teachers and the pupils.

The grammar schools were open to visitors from nine o'clock in the morning to one and two in the afternoon. The grades were all crowded with busy, happy children, proud teachers and loving parents from the opening to the closing. The exercises were fine and were enjoyed. At each school in each grade the progress of the children was shown. Their proficiency in drawing, arithmetical and grammatical problems was shown on the blackboards in the grade. Recitations, speeches, dialogues and songs were presented to a thousand appreciative and admiring people. Everywhere evidences of knowledge acquired was displayed, and when the exercises were over the universal verdict was that the money Atlanta has spent on schools in the past scholastic year was properly spent.

Below will be found the details of the day as gathered by THE CONSTITUTION reporters:

Crew Street School.

Notwithstanding the fact that the scholars of Crew street were deprived of a building of their own for half of last term, no school in the city has made a better record for the year. The attendance has been excellent, the scholars have evinced great interest in their studies, and the parents and friends who were present at the closing exercises and watched the examinations were more than pleased with the progress made. The blackboards in every grade were covered with beautiful drawings, diagrams and arithmetical problems. The children in the various grades were subjected to a severe examination, and everyone made a good showing. There was also declamations and recitations which were well worthy of older persons. In fact the parents and friends of the children were highly gratified over the result. Professor Floyd, the able principal, has labored hard, as have all his assistants, during the year, and his work showed to splendid advantage yesterday.

FIRST GRADE.

Professor C. L. Floyd, teacher. The number enrolled during the year was sixty. The boards of this grade were covered with diagrams of most difficult sentences. The first honor was taken by Ruby Jones. The Peabody medal for excellence in arithmetic was won by Leopold Haas.

SECOND GRADE.

The teacher of this grade was Miss M. F. Andrews. Number enrolled, fifty-five. The examinations in this grade were particularly hard, and the scholars showed a thorough knowledge of all they had studied during the year. The roll of honor was:

Jessie Payne, Nellie Ford.

THIRD GRADE.

A—Miss Kate Pendleton, teacher.
Edna Pope, Lizzie Doster,
Katie Pendleton, Willie Doolite.

THIRD GRADE.

Miss E. W. Smilie, the teacher of the third grade, may well be proud of the exercises by her scholars. They recited well, and their examinations were excellent. In spelling especially they were well nigh perfect. Number enrolled was sixty. The following is the roll of honor:

Mattie Petham, Daisy Jacobs, Mary Woolf,
Juliar Griggs. Willie Davis.

Honorable mention.
Laura Adair, Fannie Bloodworth,
Robert Moore, Jenneatte Wilson.

FOURTH GRADE.

The enrollment in this grade was seventy-eight. Mrs. E. Dodson, the teacher of the fourth grade, had her programme arranged so as to make it quite interesting. Her class first gave recitations, then she examined them, and in conclusion the class sang some very pretty selections. Vocal music is taught in all of the lower grades in the grammar schools, and many of the children sing real well. Roll of honor:

Joel Little, Cora Jones,
Eugene Thomas, Joe Latimer,
Daisy Smith.

FIFTH GRADE.

No grade in the public schools made a better showing than this grade. The teacher, Miss Maggie Harris, had her scholars under the best control, and from their work on the black boards, their recitations and examinations, she has certainly been untiring in her efforts to advance the children. The drawing in this room was exquisite—a map of the United States, drawn in colors, was splendidly executed. In fact the whole room was covered with beautiful drawings. That eleven in this grade shared the honor shows that Miss Harris's labor was crowned with success. The number enrolled was seventy-six. Roll of honor:

Frank Boland, G. McDevmott,
Lula Allford, Hal Wylie,
Grace Crawford, Geraldine Vignaux,
Robert Cunningham, Caro Bacon,
Kate Richards, Albert Tidwell.

SIXTH GRADE.

Mrs. M. P. Jones, teacher.

The pupils in this grade made excellent progress during the year, as was demonstrated by their examinations. In this room there were enrolled sixty. The roll of honor was:

Clara Emanuel, Walter Calloway,
Jennie Helmer, Walter Ormond,
Willie Cunningham, Abie Malone.
Henry Barr.

SEVENTH GRADE.

No grade had more visitors yesterday than the seventh. That all were satisfied, it is to be supposed, for the teacher, Miss E. V. Walker, has had the greatest success, and has the praise of the parents of all her scholars. The little ones in this grade made an excellent record. There were several who received one hundred in deportment during the year. Number enrolled was seventy-four. Roll of honor:

Mary Ormond. Annie Howard.

EIGHTH GRADE.

This grade was the center of attraction. There were eigty-six little ones between seven and nine years old, and to hear them recite and spell and go through their calisthenic exercises was highly interesting. The teacher, Miss Bell, has taken great pains with the class, and none of the pupils did better than those little toddlers. The roll of honor is:

Susie Hill, Lucy Manry,
Hal Podget, Mamie Tolbert,
Lena Floersh, Maggie Henley.

In a point of attendance, Crew has done well, with a seating capacity of 440, there have been 533 enrolled, and the average attendance has been 95.

The Walker Street School.

The exercises at Walker street school were attended by a large number of the patrons and friends of the school. Nine hundred and forty-four children were in attendance, and the enrollment and average attendance was 948. The Peabody medal was presented to Bertram Maier by Hon. Hoke Smith, who complimented the successful young student in a beautiful and chaste manner. Professor L. M. Landrum, the principal of the school, deserves great praise for his excellent management of this, the largest school, in the city. The roll of honor was as follows:

FIRST GRADE.

Professor L. M. Landrum, teacher.
B. Maier, R. Schnidler,
F. Lewis, M. Morris,
E. Richmond, I. Shepard.

SECOND GRADE.

A—Mrs. R. J. McKeon, teacher.
E. Austin, F. Fraser,
P. Henderson, M. Moore,
F. Lieberman, T. Wilson,
A. Bentley, L. Lieberman,
L. Flynn, J. Sloman,
P. Mays.

B—Mrs. V. A. Witcher, teacher.
Mattie Smith, Ada Bean,
Estelle Delbridge, Vercy Duncan,
De Les Hill, Mattie Shepard,
Pauline Tally, Maud Bently,
Sallie Bloodworth, Marcus Perryman.

B—Miss Lily Johns, teacher.
Emmie Bean, Josie Heinz,
George Murray. A. Shropshire.

FOURTH CLASS.

A—Miss Annie Prescott, teacher.
Stella Steinheimer, Jennie Schindler,
Josephine Rodgers, Edward Rice,
Laura Atkinson, Maud Carlton,
Wallace Fraser, Naomia Rush.

B—Miss Susie Johnston, teacher.
Ira DeLamater, Ada Lewis,
Nora Morgan, Eddie Rosenbaum,
George Johnson, Henry Sharp,
Monroe Ponder.

FIFTH GRADE.

A—Miss Clara Reneau, teacher.
Jennie Eberhardt, Walter Jackson,
Davie Bach, Ella Menko,
Maggie Sheats, Hal Moncrief,
Allen Zachry, Ike Lieberman.

B—Miss Mamie Battle, teacher.
Luella Burnett, Ada Stamps,
Eula Stamps, Alma Norris,
Willie Adams, Gertrude Branan,
Florence Eubanks, Julia Jordan,
Forrest Collins.

SIXTH GRADE.

A—Miss Pinkie Branham, teacher.
Lena Guthman, Azie Kierbow,
Mary Johnson, Eva Hilburn,
Minnie Harmon, Lillie Trotti.

B—Miss Jessie Orr, teacher.
Mary Peacock, Katie Akridge,
Nina Barker, Gussie Eberhardt,
Minnie Peacock Maggie Strange.

SEVENTH GRADE.

A.—Miss Lillie Clark, teacher.
Annie Sharp, Fannie Rich,
Charlie Gramling, Edwin Haas,
Philip Trimble.

B.—Mrs. S. R. S. Walsh, teacher.
Annie Zuler, Julia Rowe,
Rosa Patterson, Bruce Gill,
Jewell Cook, Lillie Flynn,
Josie Hoyle.

EIGHTH GRADE.

A.—Miss Fannie Coulter, teacher.
Dan McDuffie, Andrew Bergstrom,
Lena Gardner, Jessie Evans,
Nora Barker, Clinton Barks,
Walter Johnson.

B.—Miss Josie Beerman, teacher.
Stella Schindles, Lester Rather,
Charlie Beerman, Sigmund Teitlebaum,
Milton Hirsch, Henry Heinz,
Lela Stamps.

At the close of the exercises, Mr. David Mayer, of the board of education, addressed the teachers and pupils. He encouraged the parents to assist the teachers in the schools by giving them their earnest and cordial support. He complimented the teachers and pupils, and said he voiced the sentiment of all Atlanta when he said "well done."

Councilman Middlebrooks was called for and responded briefly. He said the city was satisfied, yea delighted with her public schools.

Judge James A. Anderson made a neat talk to the teachers and children. He said he cared not what the men said about him so he had the children on his side. He was never happier than when contributing to their pleasure.

Professor Landrum thanked the gentlemen for their attendance and words of encouragement.

The Marietta Street School.

The Marietta-street school has long been an honor to the city of Atlanta. In that school some of the leading men of Atlanta took their first lessons, and in it bright children are made good scholars every term. The school is one of the largest in the city, and is always crowded on commencement day. Yesterday every room in the building was thronged with parents who wanted to see the advancement their children had made during the term and with visitors. The exercises reflected credit upon the teachers and pupils.

Professor H. C. Mitchell, the principal, has been teaching the first and second grades, and yesterday his department showed to a fine advantage. Only one name was on his roll of honor. It was Belle Winter.

THIRD GRADE.

Mrs. S. B. Prather taught the third grade, which is located in the second room. Her roll of honor was:

Ora Cowan, Blanche Jackson,
Will Lowe, Julia Brenner,
Queen Morris, Alma Edwards,
Flora George, Mildred Iseman,
Bernice Phirl, Eloise Pearson,
Mary Tatum, Eula Edwards,
Annie Cannon.

THE FOURTH GRADE

was taught by Miss Florence Adams who presented her roll of honor.

Almira Winn, Missie Simmons,
Mary Lou Johnson, Almira Winn,
Otis Witherspoon, Maggie Davis,
Nannie Walden.

THE FIFTH GRADE.

The fifth grade was divided into two sections, A and B, and these sections were taught by Miss N. Hornady and Mrs. W. T. Johnson. The roll of honor for the two grades was:

Mary Campbell, Mary Collier,
Emma Roberts, Susie Tatum,
Rosa Thurman, Clifford Morris,
Mattie Lester, Lizzie O'Shields,
Ella Speer, Ralph Cooper,
Mary Mann, Charles Bell,
Edgar McEachern, Mary Campbell,
May Collier, Susie Tatum,
Lizzie O'Shields, Clifford Morris,
Emma Roberts.

THE SIXTH GRADE.

Mrs. V. E. Harris presided over the 6th grade during the term and presented the following roll of honor yesterday:

Harvey Whittle, Annie Adamson,
Mary Wilson, Charles Rhienberger,
Julia Manning, Ida Rutledge,
Robert Dunaway, Ernest Wynne,
James Barnwell.

THE SEVENTH GRADE

was taught by Miss Amelia Brenner, who gave the following as her roll of honor:

Essie Hall, Minnie Wheals,
Eva Laird, Amy Gaines,

THE EIGHTH GRADE.

Miss Minnie Quinn taught the eighth grade, and a bright set of children composed it. Her roll of honor was:

Guy Watkins, Clyde Cawthon,
Fletch Watkins, Eddie Payne,
Bennie Bailey, George Barnwell,
Robert Thurman, Niles Cawthon,
Willie Moncrief, Joe Turnage,
Tom Swords, Edgar Curbow,
Annie Aeuchbacher, Laura Thurman,
Janie Cawthon, Annie Mulkey,
Ida Poss, Annie Dunaway.

The Fair Street School.

The Fair street school stands a monument to the educational enthusiasm prevalent in the third ward. The building is large, well ventilated and has been crowded throughout the past term by an army of as bright, happy, teachable children as the city has within its borders. The exercisess yesterday were witnessed by the parents of the pupils, members of the board of education and members of the general council, and every presentation was applauded. The boards in the school room, from the first grade to the last, were covered with drawings, diagrams and other exercises, and in no case could criticism be used, so perfect was the work.

Prof. E. G. Moore, principal, aided by seven lady teachers, has had charge of 531 pupils in this school during the term, and the average attendance has been 93.5. The blackboards showed the roll of honor in each grade.

WEST END ACADEMY.

Closing Exercises Held Last Night at Park Street Church.

The closing exercises of West End academy were held last night in Park street church.

There was a large attendance, and the exercises were decidedly interesting.

The following was the programme:

Song—By primary grades.
Recitation, "Swallowing a Fly"—George Cunningham.
Music—Duet, beautiful Rhine waltzes, Fla. Humphries and Hannie Frazier.
Declamation—Regulus to the Roman Senate, Edward Alfriend.

Dialogue—"The Only Young Man in the Village," Laura Spilman, Annie Kent, Emma Graf, Maggie Culberson, Thomas Kicklighter, and others.
Delivery of diplomas to graduating class by Hon. G. A. Howell, chairman board of trustees.

While all did well there were some who are deserving of special mention. "The stranger in the Pew," recited by Miss Laura McGaughey, was a decided hit, and the little lady received a shower of bouquets and loud applause.

"Play of the Alphabet," by the primary grade, was very good—simple, entertaining and laughable.

"The Last Hymn," by Miss Lillian Culberson was touchingly rendered. "Nicodemus Dodge," a recitaiion by Miss Eunice Waters completely captivated the audience. Her backwoods dialect was far above the average, and she succeeded in winning the riveted attention of the entire audience. "The music Stool," by Miss Mamie Howell, was excellently rendered and was received with applause.

The dialogues were entertaining and frequent applause greeted the young people.

The following young ladies and gentlemen received diplomas, Hon. G. A. Howell, chairman of the board of trustees, presenting them in a beautiful talk: Misses Maggie Culberson, Annie Kent, Fla. Humphries; Messrs. Benjamin F. Pickett and Thomas Kicklighter.

THE COLORED SCHOOLS.

The Work of Education Among the Colored People—The Exercise.

The colored schools were not slighted by the visitors. The members of the board of education, the members of the city council and citizens dropped in to see the work. The schools were all in fine condition, and made a good showing, as will be seen by the following reports:

NOTICE.

NEW YORK, June 22, 1886.

TO THE PUBLIC—IN CONSEQUENCE OF MY probable continued absence from Atlanta, and inability to devote any personal attention in the architectural business, I have disposed of my interest in the firm of H. I. Kimball, L. B. Wheeler and W. H. Parkins, architects, to my partners above, and hereby, by mutual consent, withdraw from said firm.

My long, intimate acquaintance and business connection with Messrs. Wheeler and Parkins has afforded me unusual opportunity for knowledge of their integrity, ability and skill in their profession, and it gives me great pleasure to commend them to the public, and especially to those in want of architectural service as worthy of the highest confidence and esteem. H. I. KIMBALL.

Referring to the above notice, we take pleasure in announcing to our patrons and the public that we will continue to serve them professionally in preparing designs and plans for all classes of architectural work, and will give special attentions to interior decorations.
